BRITAIN'S WIDE DEFENCE PLANS ARE OUTLINED

White Paper Issued by Government Reveals Measures Now Under Way; Additions of Warships and Army Battalions to Be Accompanied by Extensive Increase in War Supply Manufacturing Capacity; First Line Strength of Air Force Soon to Be 1,750 Planes

By George Hambleton, Canadian Press Staff Writer
London, March 3.—By sea, land and air Great Britain is to increase her armaments. A government white paper issued today reveals the general plan of a great defence scheme that has been under consideration of the cabinet and cabinet committees for many weeks.

Cost of the scheme has been unofficially estimated at around £300,000,000 (about $1,500,000,000) over a three-year period.

The white paper said the rearmament and increased national defences were made necessary by complications of the international situation, combined with a "deplorable and undesirable" world-wide expansion of armaments.

The United States, Germany, Belgium, France, Italy and Soviet Russia were listed as having embarked already on similar plans.

RAPID REORGANIZATION

Citing "dangers of war" and proclaiming a necessity for means of defence against aggression and enforcement of collective security, the white paper disclosed:

Fresh examination of the position, made last summer and autumn, led to the conclusion it was necessary to make further changes in the Royal Air Force and speed up measures contemplated for modernization of the army and navy, to provide as rapidly as possible necessary reserves of stores of ammunition and equipment and organize industrial resources of the country in such a way as to allow immediate expansion of productive capacity in case of an emergency.

OCTOGENARIAN TWINS CELEBRATE

Canadian Press
London, Ont., March 3.—Hard work, lots of sleep, good whisky and a plentiful supply of tobacco have helped George and William Dye, twin brothers, to reach eighty years of age, they said in an interview at their home today.

Born in Norfolk, England, the brothers came to this country with their parents when they were three months old. They pioneered in farming in North Oxford County.

Consul's Speech Is Declared Improper

If L. Petrucci of Italy Again Criticizes Canada's League Course, Dominion Will Ask His Recall, Says Premier King

Ottawa, March 3.—The Commons turned its attention to the Canadian-United States trade treaty today after airing its views yesterday on several subjects, including the League of Nations, the Italo-Ethiopian war, and a speech of Luigi Petrucci, Italian consul-general in Canada.

Prime Minister King told the House yesterday he agreed with J. S. Woodsworth, C.C.F. leader, that the Petrucci speech was improper in that it criticized the policy pursued by the government of Canada in applying League sanctions to Italy. Mr. King thought no action should be taken now, but he added that if Petrucci offended against the government would have no alternative but to call the matter to the attention of the Italian government.

DOUGLAS RESOLUTION

The Petrucci speech, made Sunday evening in Montreal, came up during debate on a private member's resolution—a motion offered by Rev. T. C. Douglas, C.C.F., Weyburn, Sask., proposing "that this House urge on the government the necessity for sincere and complete fulfillment of all obligations assumed under the covenant of the League of Nations, and especially the prohibition of direct or indirect export to an aggressor nation of all raw materials and manufactured articles necessary for war purposes."

Japanese Army Being Reorganized

Associated Press

Tokyo, March 3.—Seven of the highest ranking generals of the Japanese army tonight asked permission to resign from the Supreme War Council of the empire owing to a feeling of indirect responsibility for last Wednesday's rebellion and assassinations of three government leaders.

The generals who took this action include Senjuro Hayashi and Sadao Araki, both often mentioned as possibilities for the premiership. The action is unprecedented.

If the Emperor accepts them, it means the withdrawal from the council of all the army's members except the four imperial princes.

ITALY CLAIMS BIG VICTORY

By EDWARD J. NEIL
Associated Press Correspondent
With the Northern Italian Army at the Front, Ethiopia, March 3.—The Italian army today crushed 30,000 Ethiopians under the command of Ras Imru, Governor of Golljam province, concluding a battle begun three days ago.

The Italian victory smashed the last complete Ethiopian army on the northern front.

The victory was as complete as those over the armies of Ras Muligeta, Ras Kassa and Ras Seyoum. Ras Imru's army was defeated on the western front along the Takkaze River, where the Ethiopians sought to bar the Fascist legions from moving in the direction of Lake Tana, headwaters of the Nile.

KING THANKS B.C. FOR ITS SYMPATHY

His Honor the Lieut.-Governor this morning received the following letter from Lord Tweedsmuir: "I am requested by the Royal Family to convey to you, and through you to the people of British Columbia, their sincere thanks for the sympathetic message on the occasion of the death of His Late Majesty King George the Fifth, expressed in your telegram to the secretary of State. His Majesty deeply appreciates the expression of loyalty and devotion conveyed in your telegram."

DOUGLAS CEASES ADVISING ALBERTA

Social Credit Founder, Surveying Budget and New Taxes, Decides He Will Not Come From London

Canadian Press
London, March 3.—Major C. H. Douglas has given notice to Premier William Aberhart that he intends to terminate his contract as chief adviser to the Alberta government on Social Credit management.

The founder of Social Credit has written Mr. Aberhart that circumstances had arisen under which "it was impossible" for him to carry out his policies. Interference of other officials in the management had constituted "a danger to Alberta and a breach of contract with myself."

COST TO BUDGET

Mr. Douglas returned to London today from Southampton. To the Canadian Press he issued the following statement: "The assertion that I have received approximately $6,000 in respect to my appointment as principal reconstruction adviser is still incorrect and misleading as amended by the Provincial Treasurer. I notice, however, that the cost to Alberta of the advice on which its budget has been reconstructed will be $655,000 per annum to begin with, although I am ready

TIMBER GROVE MAY BE SAVED

Publicity Bureau Informed Government Negotiating on Cathedral Grove

Negotiations are being carried out in an effort to save the Cathedral Grove stand of timber on Cameron Lake, Hon. A. Wells Gray, Minister of Lands, has advised the directors of the Victoria and Island Publicity Bureau.

Strong representations have been made by the bureau to the provincial government with a view to saving this magnificent stand of island timber, the existence of which is threatened by logging interests, and in its communications to Premier Pattullo stress was placed upon the resolution passed by the convention of provincial premiers in Ottawa and supported by the B.C. government to the effect that stockpiling be made of all Canada's tourist attractions, potential and actual, leading to the evolving of a co-operative policy to insure the preservation of all such resources and to stimulate public interest with the idea of leaving nothing undone in the matter of making, as well as keeping, Canada beautiful.

League Call For Peace Sent Italy And Ethiopia

Committee of Thirteen Asks Two Nations to Reply Within Week; Oil Embargo Discussed As Possibility

Associated Press
Geneva, March 3.—The League of Nations Committee of Thirteen, representing every member of the Council except Italy, decided today to call on Italy and Ethiopia for peace and gave the two nations one week in which to reply.

The date was fixed specifically at March 10, at which time the committee will meet again.

Its draft had been discussed earlier in the day by Rt. Hon. Anthony Eden, British Foreign Secretary, and Pierre Etienne Flandin, French Foreign Minister.

OIL DISCUSSION

League officials, meanwhile, prepared the text of a resolution for imposition of an oil sanction on Italy in the event the peace move should fail. The resolution affects both sale of oil to Italy and transportation by tankers of oil to Italy.

Informed Italian sources said Premier Mussolini was prepared to weigh carefully the peace offer, despite the threat of oil sanctions. A report that Premier Mussolini's representatives had informed M. Flandin Italy would leave the League and denounce the Locarno Pact if an oil embargo was adopted, however, was denied officially.

All League sources agreed today's programme marked perhaps the most critical juncture for the League in its efforts to bring about east African peace and to ease European tension.

In the event the new peace move failed and sterner war penalties were imposed, Italian reprisals were foreseen.

URGES SALMON PACT BE ENDED

Canadian Press
Ottawa, March 3.—A resolution urging the government to rescind Canada's ratification of the sockeye salmon treaty, concluded between this country and the United States in May, 1930, has been given notice on the order paper of the Commons by Thomas Reid, Liberal, New Westminster. Mr. Reid's reason for seeking "annulment" of Canada's action is that the United States has not yet ratified the convention.

The treaty was signed at Washington May 26, 1930, and ratified by the Canadian Parliament three days later. It has never been operative.

Canadian Press
Vancouver, March 3.—The British Columbia Court of Appeal today increased sentences meted out to three men convicted of manslaughter at the fall sittings from a total of five years to a total of twenty-eight years.

The 2½-year sentence meted out to John Pincos of Victoria in connection with the death of Clarence N. Pappas was increased to eight years as was the eighteen-month sentence handed down in the case of Ernest Banks, negro, convicted of manslaughter in connection with the death of Armando Mori.

James Bova, who shot to death his twenty-two-year-old wife, Rose, had his one-year sentence increased to twelve years.

The original sentences had been appealed by the British Columbia Attorney-General's Department on the grounds they were inadequate.

HEALTH INSURANCE FUND, $2,600,000

On the basis of estimates compiled by the government's experts, it is computed the health insurance scheme will raise a fund of approximately $2,600,000 a year for payment of the sickness bills of those insured. The bill is designed to cover 125,000 wage-earners and their families. The average contribution is 40 cents a week, making a total of $50,000 a week for the entire fund.

REPORT HEARD AS NEW JERSEY GOVERNOR CONTINUES ARGUMENT WITH POLICE

Associated Press
Trenton, N.J., March 3.—Governor Harold G. Hoffman's differences of opinion with Col. M. Norman Schwarzkopf, head of the state police, over the merits of the police work in the Lindbergh kidnap-slaying, were close to the breaking point today.

PROVISIONS OF GOVERNMENT'S PLAN FOR B.C. ANNOUNCED; WAGE-EARNERS GETTING LESS THAN $1,800 A YEAR ARE COVERED

British Columbia's health insurance scheme will cover all wage-earners in the province getting less than $1,800 a year, who will contribute 2 per cent of their salaries while their employers pay 1 per cent. Details of the final bill were made public today by Hon. G. M. Weir, Provincial Secretary.

Approximately 125,000 employees and their families, some 300,000 persons in all, will come under the scheme.

Medical care by the physician or surgeon chosen by the insured person, free hospital care, the services of diagnostic laboratories, necessary drugs and medicines and a maternity cash benefit of $20 are the "mandatory benefits" provided in the bill.

Various other medical services are "permissive benefits" which may be granted if sufficient funds are available after payment for the mandatory benefits.

The bill deals with the family as a whole unit. Dependents, wives and children will be included, with their wage-earner husbands, as insured persons.

Farm workers are specifically excluded from the compulsory features of the scheme. Certain other employees, casual workers and part-time workers, may be excluded, if the Health Insurance Commission decides and the government approves.

PRIVATE SCHEMES

An additional exemption provision is that members of existing industrial or fraternal medical service schemes shall be excluded if they and their dependents are insured under a "substantially equivalent" scheme granted under the provincial scheme in return for contributions no higher than the provincial plan requires. In other words, those employees who would be better off under private schemes than under the provincial scheme will not be affected.

In the case of some private medical service schemes that may cease operation after introduction of the provincial plan, the bill provides that members of these schemes earning from $1,800 to $5,000 per year may be included in the provincial plan as well as the members earning less than $1,800.

Provision is made for the inclusion of other persons, such as merchants, farmers and others not working for wages who earn less than $1,800 per year who may join the scheme as voluntary contributors to obtain benefits for themselves and their dependents.

CONTRIBUTIONS

The plan will be financed by contributions from employees and employers and a grant in aid of organization by the government to the amount of $50,000. The employee will pay 2 per cent of his wages and the employer 1 per cent of his payroll for insured persons, with minimum and maximum contributions fixed for each. The minimum contribution for the employee will be 35 cents per week and his maximum contribution 70 cents; while the employer's minimum payment for each employee is set at 20 cents per week and his maximum payment at 35 cents.

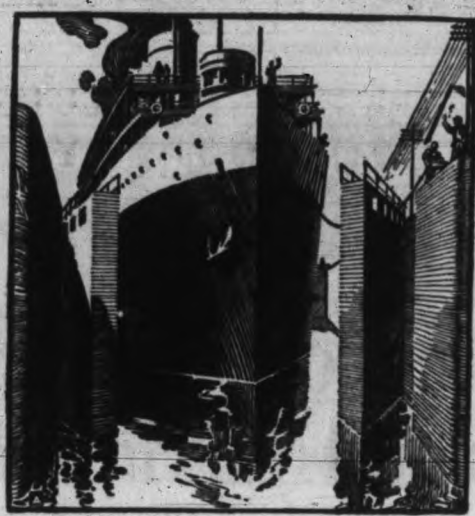

The commission has power to set the minimums at a lower figure than 35 and 20 cents if it decides this is feasible.

The employer will deduct the amount of the employee's contribution from his wages and remit this amount to the Health Insurance Commission.

Employers will only have to make contributions in behalf of employees who are insured persons, farmers, housewives and employees whose employees belong to an exempt medical service scheme and other employees whose employers are not included in the plan will not have to make contributions.

BRITAIN'S WIDE DEFENCE PLANS ARE OUTLINED

PARLIAMENTARY DEBATE

Parliament will debate the white paper next week.

Prime Minister Baldwin will name a new cabinet minister as deputy chairman of the Imperial Defence Committee to supervise, co-ordinate and control the huge armament expansion.

"The problem before us differs materially from that with which pointing out that the Italo-Ethiopian conflict showed claims on Britain's defences in various parts of the world.

Control to prevent excessive profits will be effectively exercised by inspection of books and adequate technical costings audits on behalf of the state and arbitration in cases of dispute.

Treasury control will be maintained throughout the whole field.

The government conceded virtual collapse of naval limitations as regulated by the Washington and London treaties, announced by Japan and expiring at the end of this year.

"What will remain of this limitation after the nonconclusion of the present naval conference is not yet certain, but it would seem likely an agreement will not extend beyond advance notification of annual programmes, an exchange of information and certain measures for qualitative limitation of sizes of ships and their guns," the white paper said.

NEW WARSHIPS

The government report announced plans to lay down the keels of two new capital ships in 1937, in addition of 6,000 men to the navy, 4,000 men to the army and 250 planes to the air force.

The white paper announced the expansion of Britain's existing battleships would be continued. Five cruisers will be included in the 1936 building programme, in the scheme to bring up the total of Britain's cruisers to seventy, of which sixty will be under age and ten over age.

A steady replacement programme for destroyers and submarines is contemplated," the report said.

NEW PLANE CARRIER

"A new aircraft carrier of a smaller type will be laid down at an early date. The growing naval importance of the fleet's air arm will necessitate considerable expansion of its present strength."

The white paper did not estimate the cost of the rearmament programme.

DANGERS OF WAR

The document, stressing necessity for British rearmament, declared: "Conditions in the international field have deteriorated. Taking of 'risk for peace' has not removed the dangers of war."

"We have really no alternative in the present state of the world but to review our defences and provide necessary means both for safeguarding ourselves against aggression and playing our part in enforcement of common action of international obligations."

ARMY INCREASE

The navy personnel, the white paper said, would be increased by 6,000. Four new battalions of infantry will be raised. A battalion numbers 1,000 men. The present peacetime strength of army field units is approximately 118,000.

Field artillery equipment will be thoroughly modernized. Owing to the present demands on the industrial capacity output, the Territorial Army will not be simultaneously reconditioned, but a beginning will be made at once in the task of improving its present inadequate equipment and training.

COAST DEFENCES

Modernization of coast defences will proceed at an accelerated pace. Reorganization of anti-aircraft defences in southeastern England, already authorized, will be extended with a view to covering the important industrial districts in the centre and north country. Housing conditions of the army will be immediately improved.

NEW AIRPLANES

Two hundred and fifty planes will be added to the Royal Air Force, bringing the first line strength of the force to 1,750 planes.

The white paper emphasized, however, that augmentation of the offensive and defensive powers resulting from the revised air force plans was "greatly in excess of the numerical increase just mentioned."

The increase provided in the white paper includes four new auxiliary squadrons to be formed for co-operation with the territorial army.

There will be twelve additional squadrons for empire defence. The five regular squadrons recently allocated for co-operation with the regular army will be reorganized to provide seven squadrons, each of twelve aircraft.

Plans for passive protection against air raids are approaching the stage when they can be put into operation. Asserting that "provision for adequate air reserves in both men and material is an essential and urgent need," the government announced particular attention had been given to "provision for these reserves in the shortest possible time."

NEW EXPLOSIVES PLANT

To meet requirements for production of explosives, the government report said, it would be necessary to extend and to duplicate the existing government factories.

The field of production for the air force will be extended by placing orders with firms which do not ordinarily manufacture either for the air force or for civil aviation. This process of extension will be further enlarged to meet the programme for the army and navy. Orders sufficient to permit peace-time work will be guaranteed to allow the requisite training in the production work.

The document, pointing out how Britain's naval and military needs varied from those of other countries, declared:

"The history of the Italo-Ethiopian dispute and our own action with regard to it illustrated how claims on our defensive strength may arise at short notice in various parts of the world."

PLANS ARE FLEXIBLE

The document emphasized its rearmament plans were flexible, and subject to constant review and change, depending on new conditions arising in the international situation and developments in design and invention of armaments.

Reviewing the Italo-Ethiopian conflict, the white paper said, circumstances arose which "compelled this country to take precautionary action in the Mediterranean and Red Sea."

One of these circumstances, the document asserted, was a "campaign of violent and menacing propaganda by Italy, largely directed against the United Kingdom as one of the foremost upholders of the covenant" (of the League of Nations).

"The point was reached in August last when we could no longer disregard the possibility of an incident occurring which might precipitate an extension of the conflict," the government declared.

"His Majesty's Government felt the best way to secure that no such incident should arise was to guard promptly against it."

FOR LIMITATION

But while the white paper tells the story of growing armaments in other countries, it adds, "His Majesty's government will continue to do their utmost to improve international relations and to promote an agreement for limitation of armaments."

"The proposals for the defence, outlined in the white paper, do not represent any abandonment of the international policy hitherto pursued. That policy has been steadily directed to discouraging competition in armaments—the recent naval agreement with Germany and the present effort to conclude a new naval agreement with other powers are instances of this policy—and it is true the general raising of levels all around is no guarantee to peace. But in determining our own defence programme, it is impossible to disregard the extent to which preparations have been made by others."

MOFFUP-UP

The Fascist mopping up in eastern Tientsin province proceeded today and the British Third Army Corps continued its work of consolidation.

Four thousand Ethiopians, surrounded by Italians as they sought to escape from the Tientsin sector, were killed with machine-gun fire from Italian airplanes.

In every direction the ground was strewn with dead, wounded and abandoned arms.

TOWN CAPTURED

Italian troops captured Abbi Addi, the capital of Tientsin province, early yesterday without opposition.

The remnants of Ethiopian troops under the command of Ras Kassa and Ras Seyoum, which had concentrated there, are believed to have scattered into the mountains in the east.

but I wish to add that the congressmen and American senators who have rejected every embargo on oil and other raw materials have above all rendered a precious service to the cause of world peace."

FULL STATE CONTROL

A prominent banker explained the provisions envisaged absolute state control of banking operations.

A new "inspectorate for defence of savings and exercise of credit" was appointed, comprising Mussolini himself, the minister of finance, corporations and agriculture and the governor of the Bank of Italy.

NO WIDE EFFECT

New York, March 3.—While Wall Street was taken by surprise today by the decree abolishing private banking in Italy, several foreign banking experts characterized the action as a war measure and declared it should cause no repercussions in international banking fields.

The decree was regarded by some sources as establishment of a system roughly corresponding to the United States Federal Reserve system, under government control, however, and strictly regulated.

Said one New York banker: "It simply puts a government stamp officially on a method of banking which has been in effect for some time."

DOUGLAS CEASES ADVISING ALBERTA

To believe no direct charge has been made for the advice.

ADVISE FROM MAJOR

"Prior to his radio announcement of Sunday last, Premier Aberhart had presumably been given my letter of February 15 confirming his letters of October 29 and December 11, 1935, stating the appointment of Major (R. J. Major of Montreal, financial adviser to the Alberta government) and his continued dealing with matters affecting the financial and economic future of the province constituted both a danger to the people of Alberta in their aspirations for a reformed financial system and a breach of contract with myself as principal reconstruction adviser, and that I could not be responsible for duties which it was impossible under these circumstances to perform."

Prime Minister King agreed the Petrucci speech was "quite improper."

The Prime Minister said that at present he would take the more lenient view that Petrucci had made an error of judgment, but if he repeated "the government will have no option but to make immediate representations to the country concerned."

Approached after the incident in the House, Mr. Petrucci said he had no comment to make. He has been stationed in Ottawa several years.

SANCTIONS PRESSURE

Speaking on his League resolution, Rev. T. C. Douglas said the object of his resolution was to tighten the list of sanctions, to extend it to all articles necessary for war.

Miss Agnes MacPhail, U.F.O., Labor, Grey-Bruce, Ont., said Canada's foreign department should not be asked to the Prime Minister but to a separate minister who was not so overworked. In addition, the status of the Canadian representative at Geneva should be raised. Canada should send to Geneva members of Parliament, not outsiders.

LETTER RECEIVED

Canadian Press

Edmonton, March 3.—Premier William Aberhart of Alberta, who today having received from Major C. H. Douglas the latter's notice of termination of his contract as chief reconstruction adviser to the Alberta government.

The Premier, however, refused to comment, declaring the letter from London had been received only yesterday and had not yet been placed before the cabinet.

"The government will discuss it tonight," Mr. Aberhart said. "Until then there is nothing to say, and we are not communicating with Major Douglas."

MAJOR AT WORK

Meantime, R. J. Major of Montreal, special financial adviser to the government, whose appointment and whose advice were cited by Major Douglas as causing his resignation, still is in Edmonton and is expected to remain for several more weeks.

BUDGET FIGURES

The government today was awaiting the people's reaction to the budget. In his speech yesterday Provincial Treasurer C. Cockcroft announced the taxation increases expected to realize an extra $3,225,000, including the broadened scope of the fuel oil tax to produce $200,000, and the annual driving license for motorists to produce $150,000.

The Provincial Treasurer said there would be a new sales tax on the basis of 2 per cent of all commodities sold; higher income taxes and a social services tax to replace the present supplementary tax.

In outlining the present financial position of the province, Mr. Cockcroft stated the estimated deficit for the fiscal year ending March 31, 1936, was $5,227,850.50.

SOCIAL CREDIT NOT MENTIONED

Mr. Cockcroft made no mention of Social Credit, and this fact drew comment from Social Credit supporters as well as from oppositionists. Neither was there provision in the estimates for expenses of instituting Social Credit administration.

"There is no need of setting aside money for establishment of Social Credit," Premier Aberhart declared later in answering questions on this point.

"We need no money in instituting our plans, apart from the regular costs of government."

He would make no statement, however, as to when he would be able to resume Social Credit operative in Alberta.

Consul's Speech Is Declared Improper

"And be it further resolved—that, unless and until, there is a sincere acceptance and application of the above by the member-nations of the League; Canada will refuse to participate in any foreign war no matter who the belligerents may be."

WOODSWORTH HEARD

Premier King's statement on the Petrucci speech was made after Mr. Woodsworth had drawn its attention to the House to the incident.

"The Italian consul-general, Mr. Woodsworth said, had criticized the League in his speech at Montreal and regretted application of sanctions. Petrucci was quoted as saying sanctions might lead to a bigger war, but they would not stop Italy in its Ethiopian invasion."

Mr. Woodsworth said, "It is a challenge to Canada and a challenge to the League of Nations uttered by one who has a special immunity in this country and special privileges."

In his opinion, the speech was ample grounds for Canada to seek Petrucci's withdrawal from the country.

BUILDING ORGANIZATION

Mr. Woodsworth said he had been informed that with Petrucci's "connivance there was being built up a secret organization called the Nationalist Organization for the Suppression of Anti-Fascism." Officials, Mr. Woodsworth said he had been told, were paid by the Italian government and practiced intimidation over Canadian citizens.

According to evidence given to the C.C.F. leader by a Montreal delegation some time ago, Petrucci held a meeting at which he enlisted recruits in the Fascist organization. According to the information, members were asked to take the following oath: "In the name of God and Italy I swear to execute the orders of Il Duce and to serve with all my strength and, if necessary, with my blood, the cause of the Fascist revolution."

"QUITE IMPROPER"

Prime Minister King agreed the Petrucci speech was "quite improper."

The Prime Minister said that at present he would take the more lenient view that Petrucci had made an error of judgment, but if he repeated "the government will have no option but to make immediate representations to the country concerned."

Approached after the incident in the House, Mr. Petrucci said he had no comment to make. He has been stationed in Ottawa several years.

SANCTIONS PRESSURE

Speaking on his League resolution, Rev. T. C. Douglas said the object of his resolution was to tighten the list of sanctions, to extend it to all articles necessary for war.

Miss Agnes MacPhail, U.F.O., Labor, Grey-Bruce, Ont., said Canada's foreign department should not be asked to the Prime Minister but to a separate minister who was not so overworked. In addition, the status of the Canadian representative at Geneva should be raised. Canada should send to Geneva members of Parliament, not outsiders.

LETTER RECEIVED

Canadian Press

Edmonton, March 3.—Premier William Aberhart of Alberta, who today having received from Major C. H. Douglas the latter's notice of termination of his contract as chief reconstruction adviser to the Alberta government.

The Premier, however, refused to comment, declaring the letter from London had been received only yesterday and had not yet been placed before the cabinet.

"The government will discuss it tonight," Mr. Aberhart said. "Until then there is nothing to say, and we are not communicating with Major Douglas."

MAJOR AT WORK

Meantime, R. J. Major of Montreal, special financial adviser to the government, whose appointment and whose advice were cited by Major Douglas as causing his resignation, still is in Edmonton and is expected to remain for several more weeks.

BUDGET FIGURES

The government today was awaiting the people's reaction to the budget. In his speech yesterday Provincial Treasurer C. Cockcroft announced the taxation increases expected to realize an extra $3,225,000, including the broadened scope of the fuel oil tax to produce $200,000, and the annual driving license for motorists to produce $150,000.

The Provincial Treasurer said there would be a new sales tax on the basis of 2 per cent of all commodities sold; higher income taxes and a social services tax to replace the present supplementary tax.

In outlining the present financial position of the province, Mr. Cockcroft stated the estimated deficit for the fiscal year ending March 31, 1936, was $5,227,850.50.

SOCIAL CREDIT NOT MENTIONED

Mr. Cockcroft made no mention of Social Credit, and this fact drew comment from Social Credit supporters as well as from oppositionists. Neither was there provision in the estimates for expenses of instituting Social Credit administration.

"There is no need of setting aside money for establishment of Social Credit," Premier Aberhart declared later in answering questions on this point.

"We need no money in instituting our plans, apart from the regular costs of government."

He would make no statement, however, as to when he would be able to resume Social Credit operative in Alberta.

"And be it further resolved—that, unless and until, there is a sincere acceptance and application of the above by the member-nations of the League; Canada will refuse to participate in any foreign war no matter who the belligerents may be."

WOODSWORTH HEARD

Premier King's statement on the Petrucci speech was made after Mr. Woodsworth had drawn its attention to the House to the incident.

"The Italian consul-general, Mr. Woodsworth said, had criticized the League in his speech at Montreal and regretted application of sanctions. Petrucci was quoted as saying sanctions might lead to a bigger war, but they would not stop Italy in its Ethiopian invasion."

Mr. Woodsworth said, "It is a challenge to Canada and a challenge to the League of Nations uttered by one who has a special immunity in this country and special privileges."

In his opinion, the speech was ample grounds for Canada to seek Petrucci's withdrawal from the country.

Vancouver, March 3 (Canadian Press).—Executive of oil companies here said today they did not know of any contemplated reduction of gasoline prices in British Columbia following the reduction in retail and wholesale prices announced yesterday for cities in the northwestern United States.

Oil company representatives in Victoria today said they had received no advice dealing with announcements from San Francisco that gasoline prices were to be cut from one-half to three cents a gallon to meet competitive conditions.

SPANISH ELECTION RESULTS

Madrid, March 3 (Canadian Press from Havas).—Final election returns, virtually completed following the runoff voting Sunday, indicated today that when the new Spanish Cortes assembles its seats will be divided among the main political groups as follows: People's front 263, centre 66, right 135.

Canadian Press
Winnipeg, March 3.—The Manitoba government will spend $14,097,540 in the fiscal year ending April 30, 1937, an increase of $14,481 over the previous fiscal year.

Hon. E. A. McPherson, Provincial Treasurer, tabled his estimates of next year's expenditures in the Legislature yesterday evening.

Last year, expenditures totaled $14,083,057.

A $120,000 reduction in the amount to be spent in interest payments on the provincial debt is the chief change in the estimates as compared with the previous year's.

Mr. McPherson is expected to bring down his budget some time next week.

Belgian-Polish Trade Pact Signed

Canadian Press from Havas
Brussels, March 3.—Closer relations between Belgium and Poland were forecast today following the signing yesterday of a new trade treaty by Premier Paul van Zeeland and Col. Joseph Beck, Polish Foreign Minister.

The new commercial treaty replaces a former accord between Poland and Belgium, signed in December, 1935.

Financial Rocks For Health Plan

Victoria Member Says Scheme Will Be Bankrupt If Benefits Commence Within Two Months; Chides Government on Work and Wages Promise; Urges Better Deal for Vancouver Island

Foreshadowing his opposition to the health insurance bill when speaking in the debate in the Legislature yesterday, Herbert Anson, Independent, Victoria, said the scheme would be bankrupt from the start if it commenced the proposal in the draft bill to commence payments two months after the scheme started.

The Victoria member criticized the government for an hour on most issues of importance that have arisen this session.

He "congratulated" the Provincial Secretary on having a marvelous propaganda department to put health insurance over and came out as opposing the burden it would place on industry.

Mr. Anson also urged a special government grant to Victoria to make up for the services which the city gave the government free of charge.

He complimented the Minister of Lands on his efforts to save Cathedral Grove from being cut. Island people would not be satisfied unless this were done, he said.

For the last three years, he said, 40 per cent of provincial industry has been losing money, 20 per cent has broken even, and the other 20 per cent has made profit.

"Here we are in British Columbia continually complaining, especially through Liberal spokesmen, of the eastern provinces outdoing the west, and yet we are, as a government, continually adding to the cost of industry," he said.

He charged the government with failure to fulfill its pledges of "work and wages" and said to municipalities.

The "Pattullo tour" to Ottawa have become a laughing stock to the people of the province. The cost of the trips must be enormous, and nothing has been accomplished, but a larger relief camp.

"This government owes it to the country to fulfill its pledges or admit publicly it is incompetent to do so," he declared.

Another broken pledge, he said, is the Prime Minister's promise, given shortly after the resignations were in, to fill the vacant seats of Burrard and Omineca in time for the present session.

"Is it that the government at last realizes how hopeless has been its failure that it is now prepared to face the elections even in by-elections?" he asked.

If it were necessary to restore Columbia riding in such a hurry when the government took office, how can the government justify leaving 30,000 people in Burrard without representation, he asked.

While favoring road development as an essential feature for tourists, Mr. Anson attacked the government method of financing the 1935 programme.

NO SURPLUS

The government said, he explained, that it took $2,000,000 in surplus earnings from the sinking funds to pay for the roads. But the Finance Minister could not consider he had a surplus when the sinking fund is short some $6,000,000.

"That is a very serious thing—if it is permitted to go on we may soon find in our sinking funds promises that no one will purchase," he declared.

He urged the government to do something about transportation between Prince Rupert and Terrace. While a road is not financially possible, an arrangement should be made with the C.N.R. to take care over that part of their line at a nominal rate.

AGENT-GENERAL

He advocated the appointment of W. A. McAdam, acting Agent-General, to the position of Agent-General permanently. This was an important office and Mr. McAdam had given unrivalled service on all occasions.

He put in a voice for better treatment for Vancouver Island. While opposed to the idea of making a separate crown colony of the island, he believed the people of the island, representing one-seventh of the province's population have been "shamefully treated" by all governments.

A stronghold had been put on the taxpayers in the public debt of the province, he said. Out of some $180,000,000 relatively little had been spent on Vancouver Island. The items spent on Vancouver Island, the P.G.E. included $75,000,000 on the P.G.E. Railway, $250,000 on the Prince Rupert court house, $5,000,000 on the Sumas Lake project, $5,000,000 on the Okanagan Lake project, and $6,000,000 on the New Westminster Bridge and the Esquimalt and Vancouver Hospitals.

OPPOSES CROWN COLONY

"I am not one of those advocating a separate province of Vancouver Island, or a crown colony, in fact I am opposed to that idea, but this condition cannot go on," he said.

The Premier is always talking about how much British Columbia has paid to the Dominion Government for which it has received no return, but they might realize what the provincial government has taken from Vancouver Island without a return, he said.

He advocated taking the employees of the Liquor Control Board into the civil service, saying they have not had a fair deal.

MUNICIPAL HELP NEEDED

Referring to the proposal for a fall session, he said:

"Surely this government does not propose to allow the municipalities to wallow in the mire of despair for another fiscal year before they get the relief that was so plainly promised them during the last election."

"By what semblance of right has any government the right to impose on the taxpayer the cost of an additional session. This government has been in office three years during the whole of which time they have been whoring on help from Ottawa all to no purpose. If there is anything likely to come next year's spring session will be soon enough to pass the necessary legislation."

If it was so urgent to have new laws passed this fall, adjourn the present session and save the cost of an extra one, he added.

He attacked the Premier's remarks about preserving "provincial autonomy" from financial control from Ottawa.

FOR LOAN COUNCIL

Loan council or no loan council, men of affairs are satisfied someone has got to say "no" to provincial loans.

New Park Work Is Authorized

Filling in of mudflats at the foot of Erie Street to beautify a present unsightly spot, was approved by the City Council yesterday evening on recommendation of the parks committee. The move was the start of what the committee ultimately intends to make into a harbor front park. The fill will consist of city garbage which will be properly treated before being deposited. Extension of the storm sewer to handle the deposits was also authorized.

TO CONSIDER CITY DOCTOR

Joint Committee of Council Will Investigate Setting Up Civic Dispensary

Members of the City Council's relief and health committees will take into consideration the advisability of Alderman Edward Williams's suggestion to employ a full-time city physician and surgeon to care for indigent relief cases.

The question was referred to these bodies by the council yesterday, when Alderman Williams moved a resolution that a medical office and dispensary be set up for treatment of relief cases.

In looking over this matter the council said the monthly drug account for relief cases last year was $561, or $6,732 for the year, an average of $4.60 a family. Last year there was $4,025 paid to local doctors for services rendered indigent cases. The average number of daily patients was between ten and twelve, he said.

Alderman R. A. C. Dewar supported the move and complimented Alderman Williams for bringing it before the council.

The committee will report back to the next council meeting.

City Buys New Heating Plant

Modern System for Heating City Hall Will Cost $5,855

The contract for the installation of a heating plant in the City Hall was let by the City Council yesterday evening to W. Pridham with a tender of $5,855.

This tender was recommended by the executive of the public works committee and an extra $200 was allowed for contingencies. This amount, it was explained, was to be allotted for providing thermostatic control of the plant in the janitor's quarters.

In making the recommendation, Alderman Walter Lunney, chairman of the committee, said the committee had made investigations during the last week and found seven employees home with colds contracted through working in the City Hall.

It would cost between $550 and $600 a year for coal for the new burner and the present cost was $1,200. This did not include the cost of several electric heaters in the building.

The new plant would pay for itself in eight years, he said.

REPORT ON FATAL GAME

No Fault Found in Way Sunderland-Chelsea Match Was Handled

Canadian Press
London, March 3.—The English Football Association committee appointed to inquire into alleged roughness in the First Division soccer match between Sunderland and Chelsea, February 1, following which James Thorpe, the former club's goalkeeper, died, reported yesterday the game had been conducted satisfactorily.

Thorpe was injured in making a save but apparently recovered and finished the game. A few days later his condition became serious and he died February 5 in a diabetic coma. Doctors believed this condition was probably set up by concussion suffered in the match.

A number of witnesses at the inquest testified that play was very rough in the goalmouth at the time Thorpe was hurt and while the jury returned a verdict that the twenty-two-year-old player died from diabetes, a rider was added to the effect the referee failed to exercise proper control.

In its report today the commission found no fault with the way the referee handled the game and also felt nothing could be added to the regulations regarding rough play already included in the association's rules for referees.

stop the hopeless waste and balance the budget properly."

He heartily disagreed with the suggestion of the Opposition leader that a man with financial training should not be finance minister. An experienced financial man was just what was needed, but he should be given a fair chance.

OPPOSE LEGAL PROSECUTION

Council Refuses Move to Take Official Into Court Over Shortages

By a vote of six to four the City Council yesterday evening refused a motion to prosecute Norman H. Lord, who was recently dismissed as road and toll tax collector, when shortages were discovered in his accounts.

The vote was called for by Alderman Stanley Okell, and seconded by Alderman R. A. C. Dewar, the mover stating he wanted a recorded vote on the question.

In moving his motion Alderman Okell said it was not an easy thing for him to do and one which had required courage. He felt, however, that the aldermen were condoning an offence in failing to take legal action and that prosecution should be launched for the sake of the council as a civic body.

RESULT OF VOTE

The result of the vote was as follows: For prosecution: Alderman Okell, Dewar, Andrew McGavin and Archie Willis.

Against prosecution: Mayor Leeming and Alderman T. W. Hawkins, Ed. Williams, Walter Lunney, J. D. Hunter and James Adam.

In announcing his opposition to the motion the Mayor said prosecution should be left with the bonding company on which the city had made a claim for $2,000.

"The bonding company is out $2,000 and the city will be out about $60. I can't see where we will accomplish anything by launching prosecution," said Alderman Lunney.

The Mayor said he had seen Mr. Lord yesterday and arrangements were being made to pay off the bonding company. He also had a position in front of him as soon as the matter was cleared up, the Mayor added.

In replying, Alderman Okell said he thought the passing up of such an offence by the council might serve to encourage others, and he thought prosecution was the right thing to do in the interests of the taxpayers.

Wheat Payments To Be Limited

Prairie Farmers Are Told Ottawa Government's Equalization Covers Only 1930

Canadian Press
Ottawa, March 3.—The request of prairie grain growers that non-pool farmers be treated the same as those who sold their 1930 crop of wheat through the pools has been refused.

The sub-committee of the cabinet advising on wheat, of which Trade Minister Euler is the chairman, notified the plains applicants the application could not be entertained, it was learned yesterday.

The request that farmers who sold wheat last August before the guaranteed price of 87½ cents a bushel cash into effect be reimbursed for any losses they sustained was also refused.

LIVING IN 1930

The pool wheat of the 1930 crop was taken over by the government during the crop year with the result that on the falling market some pool farmers received considerably under 60 cents a bushel. The government recently decided to reimburse these farmers to bring the price to them up to 60 cents. This is estimated to entail about $6,000,000. The request was then made that farmers who sold direct in 1930 at prices under 60 cents be also paid the difference. This has now been refused.

Wheat in 1930 started the crop year at over 60 cents and fell to slightly above 50. Some non-pool farmers sold out at more than 60 and to have reimbursed the non-pool farmers who sold under 60 would have required about $3,000,000 according to members of Parliament who have figured it out.

NEW PERMITS FOR TRADES

Alberta Barbers, Plumbers and Others Will Take Out Government Licenses

Canadian Press
Edmonton, March 3.—Government licenses and certificates of proficiency are to be required of workmen in certain trades before they will be allowed to work at those trades in Alberta, under terms of a bill introduced in the Legislature, the text of which was made available yesterday.

The licenses and certificates, the bill states, will be required for barbers, hairdressers, beauty culture operators, plumbers, automobile mechanics, steam fitters, gas fitters, indoor electricians, welders, and such other trades as the Lieutenant-Governor-in-Council may from time to time designate.

The bill does not state whether charges will be made for these licenses and certificates.

Mayor to Attend Ottawa Meeting

Mayor David Leeming yesterday evening was delegated by the City Council to attend a conference of Dominion mayors to be held in Ottawa on March 22. The conference has been called at the suggestion of Mayor Houde, of Montreal. The motion appointing the mayor as delegate also instructed him to take up in Ottawa other matters affecting the city, with special reference to issues dealing with the lease of the local grain elevator.

PARTIES HAVE SAME POLICIES

Leaders Agree But Comfortable People Oppose Them, Says Sedgwick

The fundamental principles that guided the policies of Mr. King, Mr. Bennett, Mr. Roosevelt and Mr. Hoover were the same, declared Professor G. G. Sedgwick of the University of British Columbia in a lecture on "Comfortable People and Social Change," before the University Extension Society in the Girls' Central School, yesterday evening.

Through these four leaders of the traditional parties had pledged themselves to government control of business, the "comfortable people" opposed them.

"At the present moment there is a strong opposition to the enactment in the Provincial Legislature of a bill of major and vital importance," said Professor Sedgwick, "and that opposition comes from the comfortable people or those uncomfortable ones who have been duped and deceived by them."

FOUR PRINCIPLES

The professor outlined the four principal points on which the Liberals and Conservatives agreed.

1. Mr. Bennett proposed to create a federal loan council to refund debts. Mr. King sought to balance the budget by reduction of principle and interest in public debts. The government had already proposed a federal loan council to which the provincial governments could appeal in this matter. This meant that the two major parties no longer regarded contracts as sacred, a hitherto unheard-of event in Canadian politics.

2. Though their platforms were full of pleasant vagueness, both the Conservatives and Liberals pledged themselves to give workers and consumers a larger share in the government of industry. This could only be brought about by government control and direction.

3. Mr. Bennett's old-age pension scheme was an old idea, but in its new dress utterly unprecedented in Canada. Mr. King had not disagreed on this policy. He only doubted its constitutionality.

4. Both parties were for managed currency, which would have been a fearful thing to the Canadian people of a decade ago and was still a bogey to many. Mr. King felt that the Bank of Canada should not be private but state owned. Even in his platform said the possibility of a change at a later date if experience proved it desirable.

In other words, as Mr. Bennett had said in radio addresses, "the old order of government has gone," Professor Sedgwick said. Both the major political parties had agreed that the ordinary business cycle should be controlled by government intervention, and this was the lowest common denominator of Canadian politics of today.

Prof. Sedgwick quoted from Walter Lippman's article, "The New Intelligence," to show that the fundamental principles of Hoover and Roosevelt were the same.

CHANGE INEVITABLE

"Any distance these old parties go on the way to social reform is because they are compelled to go," the speaker declared. "We cannot go back to the control of 'nature,' we can only fall back on the control of the state."

Change was inevitable and there was no good crying about experimentation because it was bound to come, he said. The two dangers that stood in the way of intelligent change were violence and the comfortable people. "We comfortable people are the main barriers to intelligent change," Prof. Sedgwick said. "We stand on the sidelines and have nothing to do with politics until it affects the dollar in our pocket, and then we cry out."

J. L. Watson, president of the University Extension Society, was in the chair.

YOUR HOME

Does it face the future in security?

Would the mortgage be provided for—should you pass on unexpectedly?

You and your family are accustomed to say "our home." You are proud to think of the home as your own. But if anything should happen to you, would your family be able to meet those semi-annual payments on the mortgage? A home is a fine thing, but a mortgage is a poor legacy for a widow!

---Let an IMPERIAL LIFE POLICY cover the amount of your mortgage

The wise and thoughtful man will cover his mortgage dollar for dollar with an Imperial Mortgage Protection Policy. Then, in case he should die, there will be cash immediately available to discharge the mortgage and leave the house clear of debt for his family.

The yearly deposits are small—just like adding about two or three per cent. to your mortgage interest. If you live, this money is not spent, but is saved and thereby builds up a cash fund for your own later years to help you maintain your home and those who may still be dependent on you.

AN OLD STORY

PEOPLE WHO ARE SITTING BACK IN their armchairs these days trying to think what brought on the economic recession a few years ago may not know that 2,500 years back, in her fertile valley, at the head of the Persian Gulf, Babylon stood in all her splendor. Yet, splendor or not, depressions, high taxes, and inflation plagued her people, and set scribes busy recording the results. And, under the direction of Dr. John Albert Wilson, patient archeologists of the Oriental Institute of the University of Chicago are busy decoding the thousands of clay tablets the scribes left. When the work is finished, Dr. Wilson said last week, more will be known about the economic history of Babylonia throughout 3,000 years of her history than about any period since.

So far, the archeologists have found that, economically at least, there is nothing new under the sun. After four years of work, they have made a complete history of the period between 600 and 400 B.C. They discovered that the Babylonians experienced a sharp rise in prices in 539 B.C., after the Persians had conquered the country. The conquerors levied heavy taxes. The price of farm lands rose abruptly. Farmers, unable to pay, lost their property, much of it being turned over eventually to grazing. But city rents went up even faster than the price of farm lands. City prices kited. The conquerors hoarded the precious metals, meanwhile extracting more and more money from the people, until the resulting inflation all but bankrupted the country.

Directly in charge of the work of compiling an economic history of Babylonia is Dr. Waldo Dubberstein. He has been at it since 1931, beginning with a painstaking reconstruction of Elamite, Assyrian, and Aramaic dictionaries to permit translations of the ancient documents. About 20,000 tablets found by the Oriental Institute in Babylonia are still to be translated.

Fragments of history amazingly detailed are being pieced together by Dr. Dubberstein. The stories of the great banking families of 3,000 years ago are being worked out. The thirty-century story of the Babylonians, all but lost in the dust of time, is only one of the histories of civilization's dawn being brought to light by the Oriental Institute. Centuries from now, perhaps, those who come after us will be wondering what people in 1936 did for their living.

Launched in 1919 with a gift from John D. Rockefeller Jr., it has sent twenty-six scientific expeditions into the "fertile crescent" of Asia Minor and Egypt, where civilization was born. Eight expeditions are now in the field.

"The Oriental Institute . . . endeavors to trace the course of human development from the merely physical man . . . to the rise and early advance of civilized societies," explains a report recently published.

"A generation of archeological research has dispelled all doubts as to the scene of this evolution, which is now recognized as having been the ancient Near East, the region folded like a horseshoe around the eastern end of the Mediterranean."

"The ancient lands of this region today constitute an almost inexhaustible storehouse filled with perishing and still unsalvaged evidences disclosing early human development. . . . The Institute is endeavoring to salvage the original evidence for the compilation of a new and fuller history of civilization."

When its founder, Dr. James Henry Breasted, died last November, his thirty-six-year-old student, Dr. Wilson, was named acting director of the Institute. He is to become director in June, and now is laying plans for continuation of the work.

Dr. Wilson is a hearty, adventurous young man who has no hesitation about swinging a shovel himself in any archeological expedition, and has often done so. He translates hieroglyphics for relaxation; but he likes detective stories, too.

ALL A MATTER OF SERVICE

IT IS BEING ARGUED IN THE COUNTRY on the south of us that intelligent railroad traffic men understand that the best way to attack the problem of lost business is to render such good service that the business could not afford to stay lost.

For example, the Illinois Central system recently announced free pick-up and delivery freight service; and a whole group of Mississippi Valley and southwestern lines are preparing to follow suit.

The Chicago Belt Railway, by the way, also has gone in for this form of service, with the result that Chicago industry now has virtually free trucking service to and from outgoing freight stations on all traffic.

Steps such as these can be counted on to restore to the railroads much of the business they have lost to their competitors. Customers naturally patronize those concerns which give them the best service.

FEARS UNWARRANTED

WHEN THE TERMS OF THE CANADA- United States Reciprocity Treaty were made known in the latter part of last year, there were cries of alarm on the part of Washington State lumber operators. They feared the competition of British Columbia lumber admitted on a limited quota at a preferential rate of duty. Their fear was paralleled by that of cattle men in some of the farm states, who had visions of an inflow from the Canadian prairie cattle ranches that would demoralize their markets.

But such fears have been proved unwarranted. Mr. Cordell Hull, Secretary of State in Roosevelt's cabinet, in his article, "High Tariff Versus Trade" in the current Harper's, brings a late report on the way things are working out. "Many cattle men of our western states and many lumber men in the Pacific Northwest," he writes, "now agree that the reduction made in the rates of duty were moderate, and they are beginning to see the very real benefits to American agriculture, industry and commerce from the agreement."

Despite what Mr. Bennett at Ottawa may say, British Columbia, because of its experience so far with reciprocity, will be inclined to go along with Mr. Hull when he adds: "As the trade agreements programme moves forward, it is to be hoped and expected that many other groups which have placed their faith in excessively high trade barriers will come to realize that by means of their careful and reasonable liberalization, foreign markets for our agricultural and industrial products can be expanded to the benefit of themselves and the entire country."

AS ONE MAN TO ANOTHER

KING EDWARD THE EIGHTH SPOKE to the world last Sunday in a very informal manner. Perhaps one of his most striking and impressive sentences was this: "Although I now speak to you as King, I am still the same man who has had the opportunity of getting to know the people of nearly every country in the world under all conditions and circumstances."

It was in 1919 that Victoria first welcomed the present King as the Prince of Wales and upon two occasions afterwards—in 1924 and in 1927. The citizens of this community will hope that it will be possible for His Majesty to come out to Canada again and renew some of the associations which he formed nearly seventeen years ago.

As we said in these columns a few days ago, the new monarch has made it an important business in life to get into touch with the ordinary people, or, to quote his own words, with "the people of nearly every country in the world under all conditions and circumstances."

His reference to his late father was significant as the creed of the ruler who has taken on an onerous task from his predecessor, who had endeared himself to the peoples of the British Commonwealth of Nations.

INSULAR BOORISHNESS

IT IS INTERESTING TO NOTE FROM the questionnaires the Victoria and Island Publicity Bureau has sent to summer tourists seeking their views on Victoria that many United States visitors have been impressed by the cordiality of Vancouver Island people to those who visit us from across the line.

That amity existing between Canada and the United States and its great unguarded border line is often pointed to as the most striking example in history of two nations living side by side in friendship and escaping the burden of a border bristling with costly armaments and men as is the case in Europe.

There was a little jarring note, however, in one of the questionnaires recently and it was told by a former Victorian who was returning to his home town with a number of United States friends he had made since taking up his residence across the line.

"My American friends," he wrote, "were given a very bad impression by a man at the boat commenting as passengers embarked. 'Here are some more Americans? Why don't they stay in their own country?' While this may be an incident that might be considered hardly worth noticing, the effect may be greater than it may appear. . . . Too frequently the voice of an individual is taken as being representative of a section and it is unfortunate that even one party of visitors should return to the United States with a memory of such boorishness."

The broadcasts from the United States on the death of King George V demonstrated how Americans, although intensely patriotic, can hold respect or even affection for another country. It would be unfortunate if one or two unrepresentative persons here should even give a hint that such a spirit is not generally reciprocated in Canada's attitude to the United States.

Men, who have been harranged into joining this organization or that group, might be intrigued to know just who gets the funds they put into the treasury." The suggestion will appeal to a great many Saskatchewan people who backed political movements of various sorts.

In pursuance of this policy the natives retain a large share of self-government in the villages and district councils and there are triennial "Durbar" attended by the chiefs of the provinces and presided over by the Governor. The Filipinos are groping bewilderingly in the face of the economic penetration of the Indians and the new threat of political domination.

The amount Egypt has been spending on tourist publicity has been ridiculously small in proportion to the benefit that has come to Egypt in the past, and will come in the future, from the tourist traffic. Persons connected with the traffic have been becoming almost desperate at the lack of interest taken by the government. Even a poor country like Greece is spending double as much on Egypt. All countries in the world are waking up to the importance of tourism as a source of national income. One has only to see the advertisements that appear in Egyptian papers to get an idea of what some countries are expending to bring visitors to their shores. Egypt, with more tourist attractions than most of these lands, has been doing less than any of them.

We regret the frailties of human nature—but we kind of like them just the same—Mr. Ansonb seeks the marrow—Mrs. Steeves carries on a dull—And Mr. Savage discusses Beer and the Bible.

By BRUCE HUTCHISON

HUMAN NATURE

TO THE IMMORTAL RECORDS OF the Legislature has been added another piece of ripe wisdom. On the formal motion of the Prime Minister, this House resolved on Monday that it "regrets the frailties of human nature, but feels that life would be less exciting without them."

This important decision, the first actual business completed at the third session of the Eighteenth Legislature, came about in a curious fashion. The Premier had risen on a question of privilege to say that he had not said at the Laurier Club last Saturday that he wished he were in opposition at Ottawa, as reported in the morning press. According to the rules he had to move a motion at the end of this explanation. With a brief return of that playful spirit which sometimes marked his days of opposition, he had composed this lovely gem as above.

Undoubtedly, he had intended to move it and withdraw it, as custom provides, but Mr. Speaker Perry, who is apt to take the Premier's remarks seriously at all times, duly intoned the motion to the House. "All-in-favor—contrary—carried," said the Speaker, and generations yet unborn will know that this Legislature does regret the frailties of human nature but does believe that life would be less exciting without them. What frailties the Premier had in mind—the times being what they are—tempt the imagination; but, alas, must forever remain unknown.

LIKE A LAMB

LIFE, HOWEVER, IN THIS HOUSE AT least, isn't overwhelmingly exciting even with them. March came in like a lamb. It came in with three first-rate speeches which covered in their span just about all the varied viewpoints of those opposed to the government—high Tory, Christian Tory and Socialist.

Mr. Ansonb of Victoria, of course, is our high Tory, one of a species almost extinct in this House, and officially extinguished in the federal Parliament by the sudden conversion of Mr. Bennett. Mr. Ansonb does not change with the changing attitude of his Conservative Party. He has not left it. Rather the Conservative Party has left him. Here is a man carved out of granite on huge and rugged lines, who thunders his warnings tirelessly, in a voice of unvarying volume and, that sufficient to shake the chamber—an able speaker, a clear thinker, one of those men who has strode upward in life by sheer force, an utter lack of doubt about anything and no inconvenient instincts of poetry.

MARROW

ON THE BUDGET TO THE BONE, SAID Mr. Ansonb in his first year. Scrape the bone, in his second. And now in his third, he says squeeze the marrow out of the bone. Here is the ablest voice of orthodox finance we have in these parts. And, looking across at Mr. Hart, Mr. Ansonb sees another whom he reckons as one of the faithful and one of the best—if fellows like Dr. Weir would only leave him alone and stop such monkey shins as health insurance. Yes, Mr. Ansonb would even go so far as to pay the members but one indemnity for the two sessions this year, the amount calculated to make him highly popular in the back benches.

POISON

MRS. STEEVES IS THE PERFECT CONTRAST to Mr. Ansonb. She recognized the contrast as she rose, observing that they were so dissimilar that one of them must be poison and the other antidote. Gallantly, as he could hardly fail to do for so charming a lady, Mr. Ansonb at once jumped to his feet to say that he would not claim for a moment to be the antidote.

BURN KIRK'S COAL

"Does Last Longer"
1239 BROAD ST. G 3241

The lady socialist does not memorize her speeches as does Mr. Ansonb and attempts no flights of oratory. But she has a sharp, brittle style, a quaint way of rolling her r's, a rare choice of words and a certain Puckish impudence which makes her one of the best speakers about here. Her irony is delightful, but pointed and apt to be red hot; as when she gravely congratulated the government on its great achievement of staying in office another year; of unloading Mr. McGee after he had done the "mucky chores" of the last provincial election; of helping to elect in Ottawa an administration which would provide work and wages—huge loans and everything else required.

MAKING MERRY

BUT SHE GREW BITTER as she read the Premier's statement that unemployment relief was becoming a racket, that the unemployed were saying, "Eat, drink and be merry, for tomorrow we go on the dole." As she drew a picture of the unemployed meeting in dingy bars throughout the country, to the light of dim coal oil lamps, in rage, with no thought in their heart but fear of the morrow, Mrs. Steeves began to hit her stride as a crusading socialist. The Premier would find, she said, that there was no merry-making for such people. And excusing herself for such domestic details she asked how a baby could be supported on the relief allowance of $3.75 a month when it needed $3 for milk alone, $9 for the cheapest diet prescribed by the provincial health department.

Mrs. Paul Smith had sought a duel with this accomplished duelist when she said socialism wouldn't work. Could anyone say in this mad world that capitalism was working, cried Mrs. Steeves, and then she treated the House to a neat lecture on the theory of socialism, on its quarrel with communism, on Scandinavian semi-socialism and on Russia.

Most quaint, most scintillating was Mrs. Steeves' invitation to Dr. Weir to pursue his principles a little further and join the C.C.F., for it was a shame to see his ability wasted in a Liberal Party interested in him only as a political convenience, annoyed at him as a legislative inconvenience. This interesting flirtation, purely in the political sense, of course, made no progress. Dr. Weir unfortunately was not in the House.

HUMAN

MR. SAVAGE, ONE OF THE FINEST spirits in our politics, wound up the day with his usual quiet plea for better citizenship as the only hope of better government. The basic problem, according to the truly Christian man from Cowichan, is not financial, not economic, but moral. Save the individual, he says, and you save society.

You must start with the young. Always that is his cry—a new deal for the disillusioned youth of our time, sunk in the "rotting reservoir" of unemployment. Give them work in the woods, on the roads.

And it was typical of the genius of our strange race, which was ever a mixture of the earthly and the sublime, that Mr. Savage should conclude with a plea for a standardized beer glass in beer parlors and the Bible in the schools.

USE OF HALL IS REFUSED

Esquimalt Council Votes
Against Letting Ratepayers
Use Municipal Hall

By a vote of four to seven, the Esquimalt Council yesterday evening decided against the use of the Municipal Hall for monthly meetings of the Esquimalt Ratepayers' Association, as requested in a letter from the secretary.

The vote was taken after a heated discussion. Councillors T. H. Hodgson, Fred G. Eaton and Clarence L. Pullen voted in favor of granting the association's request. Reeve Alex Lockley and Councillors Thomas Hadfield, Albert Heald and David A. Henry voted against.

A letter from the Ratepayers' Association making a strong protest against any increase in the mill rate was received and filed. Reeve Lockley said he felt the association had been a little premature in this request as the mill rate had not yet been raised. He said the council was just as anxious to keep the tax rate down as the Ratepayers' Association.

Much discussion followed the report of the Finance Committee that the present auditors were unable to reduce their annual fee. Councillors Eaton, Hodgson and Pullen felt tenders should be called for the audit. The matter was laid over for two weeks.

The request of the Jubilee Hospital for a further grant from Esquimalt was laid on the table until the 1936 estimates were considered. The municipality's solicitor will be asked for a report on the legality of poles on Esquimalt's streets. This was decided following a discussion on the pole at the corner of Park Place and Esquimalt Road.

The Chief of Police will be asked for a report on the advisability of renting property on Macaulay Point to the Victoria Gun Club for clay pigeon trap shooting. It was pointed out it was illegal to carry firearms in the municipality.

A motion for a surgery in Esquimalt as requested by the C.C.F.-Unemployed Council was lost.

The Finance Committee will meet Monday evening to give first consideration to the 1936 estimates, which will then be placed before the council at a public meeting March 18. Several of the councillors were against consideration of the estimates at a private meeting. If possible, a copy of the estimates will be placed in the hands of the council's forty-eight hours before the meeting.

A letter was read from L. A. Cotton thanking the public works department of the municipality for fine services rendered during the bad weather.

ECONOMY PLEA MADE IN HOUSE

Hugh Savage Says Services
Should Be Pruned to Balance Budget

"Ruthless pruning" of governmental services was urged in the Legislature yesterday by Hugh Savage, Independent, Cowichan-Newcastle.

Reduction of the number of members in the House and lessening of sessional indemnities should be included, he said.

"This province is bankrupt. Luckily, its revenues have increased lately but its overhead has increased more proportionately. And it is now proposed to increase that overhead by undertaking additional measures of state dictatorship," he declared.

The Liberal party, he said, promised B.C. a balanced budget, a road commission and health insurance. It should put first things first, and balance the budget above all things.

Mr. Savage appealed for a programme to give youth an opportunity.

"This is the sixth year of the shameless wastage of our youth," he said.

Last year the government had started mining and forestry training schemes, giving work to 500 individuals at a cost of $91,000. For an expenditure of $209,000 a total of 1,000 youths could be given work this year on a similar basis.

"But," he added, "the major outlet for this rotting reservoir of wasted labor is through road construction."

DOMINION FUNDS

The government, he said, should do more to secure Dominion funds for employing youths on roads. Jobs could be given either on a basis of deferred payment or under an apprenticeship plan.

If the deferred system were used, $1,000,000 could be spent to employ 5,000.

Mr. Savage favored holding fall sessions of the Legislature but criticized payment of two indemnities as a possible "sweetener" of bitter pills but calculated to enrage further a disappointed electorate.

He urged a change in the system of issuing car licenses with a reduction in fees. One proposal was to give a license for $5 a year and let the gas tax remain the same; the other to give a permanent car license and raise the gasoline tax two cents a gallon.

This would make payment for car licenses on the basis of the gallonage of gas used, much in the same way as the Liquor Board charges for beer licenses according to the amount of beer sold in a place.

BEER GLASSES

Incidentally, he said, a standard size of glass for beer should be set. If the government still feared to introduce the question of liquor control through the beer and wine issue, a commission of inquiry should be set up to report on it at the fall session, he said.

This committee's investigations should start with the breweries, their capital structure and profits, previous and present, he said. "One outside brewery came into B.C. to break the ring. Are all breweries now in the ring? Are profits excessive? The public are certainly paying more in B.C. than in the U.S.A."

Concluding, he advocated greater moral and Christian teaching in the schools. Troubles of today could be laid in the failure to recognize the words of Dean Inge:

"Unless our country can produce an adequate number of men and women who will put God first, their country second, their class third and themselves last, we shall lose our liberties, and we shall deserve to lose them."

CORRECTION BY PREMIER

Attention of House Drawn to Misinterpretation of His
Vancouver Speech

Premier Pattullo made a formal statement to the Legislature yesterday to correct a report of his address to the Laurier Club in Vancouver Saturday, in which he was quoted as saying in reference to the federal government, "I'd like to be in opposition to this government and they would make a much better job of it."

The Premier said: "What actually took place was this. I made comments with respect to the criticism and comment in eastern Canada with regard to conditions in British Columbia and belittling the action of this government on our problems as related to the Dominion Government; this comment being aided and abetted by similar comment within this province. What I then said was that if I was in opposition to our government I could make a much better job of criticizing than by seizing upon that sort of thing."

He Premier assured the House that The Canadian Press had undertaken to correct the wrong impression that might have been created throughout Canada by the misreported statement, and he expected any papers that had published it here to correct it.

Conforming with Parliamentary rule he then moved a formal motion, which read:

"Resolved that this House regret the frailties of human nature but believes that life would be less exciting without them."

Want Busses on Right Schedule

Complaints of Haultain Service Leads to Action by City Council

In an effort to satisfy recent numerous complaints, the City Council yesterday evening referred to the business and trade development committee the question of having B.C. Electric and Blue Line busses on the Haultain route operate to schedule and provide a better service for residents of the community served.

Alderman R. A. C. Dewar sponsored the move, stating complaints had been made to him that the two lines were endeavoring to outdo each other and were not keeping to strict schedule.

Alderman Walter Luney supported the move and said it was evident at times that the busses raced down Yates Street to see which would get to the city terminal first and get the best position. Proper authorities should see the busses stood no longer than a specified time at the terminal and there should be no jockeying for positions, he said.

It was suggested an inspector should be placed at the terminal to see that no longer than the specified time was occupied by the busses in the city when taking on passengers.

The committee was instructed to investigate the possibility of penalizing the companies for failing to keep to their original schedules, and report back to the council.

FERRY PLANS ARE DISCUSSED

The transportation committee of the Chamber of Commerce appointed to investigate and report on the proposed Vancouver-Patricia Bay ferry and proposed improvements to the Ogden Point ferry slip to permit the C.P.R. transfer barges as well as those of the C.N.R. to the landing facilities in the outer harbor, met at 10:30 o'clock this morning.

The committee is composed of Cliff Denham, E. H. Morley, Capt. R. W. McMurray, Harold Husband, V. A. Ridgway, Walter Miles, J. L. Burtman, William Hyslop, George E. MacDonald, Norman A. Fraser, Duncan MacBride and H. L. Sangster, under the chairmanship of Frank Turley.

City Must Pay For Single Men

New Federal Ruling Follows
Decision to Abolish Dominion Relief Camps

In conjunction with the federal government ruling to abolish single men's relief camps in Canada, the City Council was notified yesterday evening that only disabled single men will hereafter be accepted as Dominion charges.

The letter aroused immediate protest in the council chamber and the relief committee, with Mayor Leeming and E. G. Snowden, relief officer, was instructed to interview the Minister of Labor to see what action the province was going to take in the matter. The letter was signed by W. G.

Stone, superintendent in charge of federal relief administration here, and stipulated that only medically unfit applicants would be accepted by the department.

Mr. Snowden told the council this decision would result in an influx of between 400 and 500 single men into the city as soon as they learned they would receive relief in the city without working in the camps.

"This will mean an extra charge to us of $15 per month a man," Mayor Leeming said. He suggested the minister should be approached.

APPOINTMENTS AT CITY HALL

Two appointments to fill vacancies created by recent reorganization of the City Hall staff were filled by the City Council yesterday evening.

K. P. Neakes was made a clerk in the collector and assessor's office at $55 a month, and Stanley Hodgkinson was appointed as junior clerk at $46 a month. The former was promoted after less than a year in the city's employ.

LITTLE HUNTING DUE TO COUGARS

P. H. Welch Says Cats Are Killing Off Game Up-island

Cougars are destroying the game in the Alberni district, according to P. H. Welch, cougar hunter of Alberni, who was in Victoria yesterday. "I saw more deer tracks on the train from Shawnigan to Victoria than I saw in seven days in the woods around Alberni," he declared.

Very few hunters got their limit up-island last year. Though forty-five cougars had been brought in last month, as compared with twenty in January, Mr. Welch felt that with the snow on the ground the cats could have been exterminated.

The $10 bounty is not high enough, he said. "It used to be $40, but it should be $50. It costs a lot to keep dogs."

Mr. Welch bagged six cougars in seven days recently. One of the

WORKROOM APPEALS FOR USED CLOTHING

The Women's Workroom makes an earnest appeal for used clothing, shoes, hats and similar things which are usually discarded at spring-cleaning time. These things can be made over in the workroom.

To everyone a background of knowledge of the history of art can be obtained through reading. A work of art should not be judged by standards of pretentiousness, or because it illustrates a story or because it is like something in nature.

Most important of all, the speaker indicated, was the character of the work, a certain quality which had the stamp of the personality of the artist. A great work of art should stir emotion or make one think, she said, showing several works of great artists.

An excellent cast has been selected with Miss Phyllis Deaville as the leading lady, and a strong chorus, the outstanding feature of which is that they are all young girls and boys from sixteen to twenty-six. All concerned have been working earnestly to make this production an outstanding success, and it is hoped the public will turn out in force to encourage these young people.

CAN CULTIVATE APPRECIATION

Mrs. Hazel Hodson Addresses Y.W.C.A. Group in Charm Course

Good taste can be developed by experience and training and adds not only to the charm of a woman but also to her personal happiness, Mrs. Hazel Hodson told an appreciative audience yesterday evening at the Y.W.C.A. in her talk on "Cultural Appreciation," the sixth of a series of weekly lectures sponsored by the Senior Business Girls' Club.

The concluding talk in "charm" course will be given next Monday evening by Dr. Henrietta Anderson on the subject "A Philosophy of Life for Youth." An invitation was extended to those attending the lecture to remain for a social hour next week.

CULTURAL APPRECIATION

Mrs. Hodson dealt with cultural appreciation in literature, art and music. She pointed out that the broader one's knowledge, the better one is able to meet people on their own conversational ground. In the field of literature she suggested that in reading one should treat subjects in a normal way and be normally adjusted to life, instead of seeking literature as a refuge, or for the sake of amassing knowledge to impress other people.

As standards for judging, Mrs. Hodson suggested that the individual should start valuing the things which she likes and develop her taste as she progresses. Just because literature is light does not mean that it cannot be good. She advised also that in order not to confine oneself entirely to one field, subjects of antiquity should be included. A background of classical reading was also recommended as being essential.

Reading about one particular subject such as a country, or a period co-ordinates one's reading, the speaker maintained. In order to keep up with modern literature, reviews and literary supplements and library assistance are always available.

TO JUDGE ART

Turning to art, Mrs. Hodson pointed out that this field was more difficult, as there were no art galleries here as a background. However, to everyone a background of knowledge of the history of art can be obtained through reading. A work of art should not be judged by standards of pretentiousness, or because it illustrates a story or because it is like something in nature.

Mrs. Hodson gave a few simple rules for judging art. First it should be considered as a composition; then its value, drawing form and color should be studied. By composition in art meant the placing of forms, lines or colors in relation to one another. Value—brightness, shade and balance, and drawing should suggest the form correctly and the lines should balance. The colors should please.

Most important of all, the speaker indicated, was the character of the work, a certain quality which had the stamp of the personality of the artist. A great work of art should stir emotion or make one think, she said, showing several works of great artists.

MUSIC AND ART

Mrs. Hodson stated, music having balance, harmony and tone color. Both, if great, stimulate thought or emotion. Before judging a composition of music, one should make certain mental inquiries about the nature of the composition, the style of the work, the themes upon which the work is founded, the use made of them, the tonal values and the personality of the composer.

In judging any great work there are two ways, technical and aesthetic, the latter embracing what one thinks or feels. Mrs. Hodson said in conclusion, giving a warning to avoid the sentimental in literature, art and music.

Junior W.A. Busy On Plans For Annual Horse Show

Jubilee Group Names Committees to Look After April Gymkhana Preparations; Reports Presented

Committees for the annual horse show which the Junior Woman's Auxiliary of the Royal Jubilee Hospital will sponsor in April were struck at the monthly meeting of the auxiliary held yesterday afternoon at the nurses' home. Mrs. E. V. Finland, first vice-president, was in the chair in the unavoidable absence of Mrs. J. A. Stewart, the president.

Mrs. N. Van der Vliet was named general convener; Mrs. W. B. Leach, secretary-treasurer; Mrs. G. H. Simons, head of the advertising committee; Mrs. Jack Gray, convener of the decorating committee; Miss Eleanor Heisterman, ushering; Miss Jean Campbell and Miss Claire Layhorn, box office; tickets, Miss Josephine Ribbet.

General business included the presentation of the monthly reports. Mrs. A. C. Fletcher, for the visiting committee, reported twenty-eight hospital and six home visits during the month; Miss Helen Crawford reported ten trips made by the transportation committee; Miss Frances Price, clothes room convener, reported clothing having been distributed and donations received and asked for dressing gowns for the patients in the children's ward.

The report submitted by Mrs. K. R. F. Denniston referred to four weekly bandaging meetings, when 276 dozen small dressings and 238 large dressings were made. The diet report sent in by Mrs. Wootton spoke of seven cases having been cared for.

BANDAGING "BEE"

A special bandaging "bee" will be held on March 15 at the nurses' home at 2 o'clock and all members are asked to be present. Tea will be served during the afternoon. It was requested that stubs for the tickets in the cloak room be returned at the bandaging "bee."

Mrs. P. McLoughlin asked for volunteers for the magazine committee, eight members of the auxiliary responding.

Miss M. McBride, social service worker at the hospital, was present at the meeting and read a report she had prepared on the work being done by the auxiliary, which will be submitted to Dr. T. W. Walker.

WOMAN SLEEPER DEFIES WINTER

Edmonton, March 3.—Mrs. Edith Phillips, assistant matron of a local nursing home, scoffs at reports of an Alberta college student who yielded to the icy grip of winter and retired indoors to sleep after trying to stick to his record or sleeping out throughout the year.

For the last ten years, she claims, she has slept out on a porch of the home, and only three times during that period has she had to seek warmer quarters.

She first started the practice following a nervous breakdown, complicated by lung trouble. Physicians advised the move and she liked it so well she stuck to it. She feels in excellent health.

Y.P.S. Entertained By "Tall" Stories

George Dickson, telling about his trip to the moon, won first honors in the "tall stories" contest, held at the First United Y.P.S. last night. The program was arranged by the literary group, with Ken MacDonald acting as chairman.

The meeting opened with a devotional period, led by Miss Frances Lockard, ably assisted by Miss Jean Hyslop and Miss "Bunny" Lawrence. A humorous debate, "Resolved that leap year proposals are right and proper," was next on the program. The debaters, Miss Beth Taylor and Miss E. McConnell speaking for the affirmative, and Douglas Balfour and Eifion Jones upholding the negative. The judges, Mrs. E. W. Horton, Miss Lillian Robinson and W. O. Findlay, after a careful study of the arguments, decided that it was a draw.

The "tall stories" contest was the highlight of the evening, with nearly every member of the society telling his favorite. The prize was awarded to George Dickson by popular vote, with Miss Lillian Robinson running a close second. The meeting was brought to a close with the singing of "O Canada."

Next week the programme is in charge of Doug Balfour. A guest speaker has been arranged for, so a good turnout is anticipated.

Modern External Treatment Helps End Colds Sooner

Just Rubbed on At Bedtime Its Double-Action Continues Through Hours of Restful Sleep.

OFTEN RELIEVES BY MORNING

Before a miserable cold gets you down, go to bed and apply Vicks VapoRub. Two generations have proved VapoRub the surest help to a milder, shorter cold.

Just rub on throat and chest at bedtime. VapoRub acts two ways:

1. By stimulation through the skin, like a poultice or plaster.
2. By inhalation of its penetrating medicated vapors, released by body heat and breathed in direct to inflamed air-passages.

Continuing through the night, this combined vapor-poultice action loosens phlegm—soothes irritated membranes—helps break congestion. Often, by morning the worst of the cold is over.

For Fever and Shorter Colds

Note for your family: Vicks has developed, especially for home use, a practical Plan for Better Control of Colds. This commonsense guide to fewer and shorter colds has been clinically tested by practicing physicians and further proven in everyday home use by millions.

Full details of Vicks Plan come in each VapoRub package.

Your Baby And Mine

By MYRTLE MEYER ELDERD

CHILDREN WILL LEARN "MANNERS" BY IMITATION

By noticing the behavior of his parents the child learns painfully in the home how to act toward company. Then he says "Thank you" and "Please," "How do you do" and "Goodbye," not because he has been told that he "must" use such phrases but because they have become a fixed part of the ceremonies themselves.

FORCED GRATITUDE

Forcing a child to say "Thank you" when accepting a gift becomes in some cases just a test of endurance between the mother and child. It is better that a few thank yous be omitted than that the unhappy, ugly feeling engendered by a forced gratitude were made to color all future questions of the same kind.

Some of the former servility with which children were wont to address adults has been changed. My leaflet, "Etiquette for Children," discusses these changes in present day manners. It may be had for a self-addressed, three-cent stamped envelope sent to Myrtle Meyer Elderd of the Your Baby and Mine department of this newspaper.

PLAY A GAME

Sometimes the way in which company should be greeted and treated can be played as a game between the mother and children. Evelyn may be the visitor. Tommy opens the door, takes the visitor's hat and coat and shows her into the living-room.

"How is your sweet baby?" asks mother in her best company tones. Ang Evelyn is given a package which is designed for the doll baby. "Oh, thank you so much," responds Evelyn in exactly the way in which mother is in the habit of responding on like occasions. Such practice familiarizes the child with mannerly responses and small talk, and when real company arrives the phrases slip out without embarrassment.

URGES MORE CHILD RELIEF

Allowance Should Be Raised, Says Mrs. Steeves; Terms Method "Ridiculous"

Mrs. D. G. Steeves, C.C.F. North Vancouver, delivered the women's viewpoint for the Opposition in the Legislature yesterday, replying to Mrs. Paul Smith, Liberal, Burrard, who opened the debate last Wednesday.

She made a plea for children. The relief allowance of $3.75 a month allowed them under the government scale is hopelessly inadequate, she said.

It covers every child from one year to twenty-one years of age. "Anyone with any sense can see that is ridiculous," she said. "It's not even enough to feed a one-year-old baby."

Mrs. Steeves proposed the following for a child on relief: $3 worth of milk per month, $1 for soup, $1 for fruit and juice, 40 cents for cod liver oil, 10 cents for cereals and 30 cents for eggs, a total of $5.80. Even this, she said, is much lower than the Board of Health's own diet for children which would cost $8 or $9 a month.

She protested that women on relief were not permitted to work out their taxes and was assured by Hon. A. Wells Gray that if she would furnish him with names he would see that a satisfactory arrangement was made.

Mrs. Steeves predicted the Pattullo Government would die by "suicide," cut off by its own supporters, just as had the Tolmie Government and the Bennett Government.

NO IDEA OF CONDITIONS

The statement of Premier Pattullo at the Ottawa conference inferring that relief was a "racket," showed he had no conception of conditions, she said.

"I have traveled a lot in this province. I have attended meetings in barns, in unused houses. I have seen the faces of people gaunt and careworn. They have no spirit left—no ideas. The thing dominating them is fear."

"Social workers know that there are certain psychopathic cases who would rather live in idleness than work, but it is the system that creates them. Most of them are only too pathetically anxious to work."

REPLY ON SOCIALISM

Taking up the cudgels against Mrs. Smith's attack on socialism, she declared that the lack of anything in the speech from the Throne in view of the crisis facing not only B.C. but the world as a whole, was as pitiful as Mrs. Smith's statement that socialism would not work.

"Who can say that capitalism is working?" she asked.

She described how Sweden was undergoing a peaceful transition into socialism, and recommended that members several books on socialism.

"There may not be so many permanent waves and silk stockings in Russia as there are here, but they are building an entirely new house—and while they are building it they are living in the kitchen. Just as we are and just as comfortable as they will be in the whole house, but not with all the luxuries yet."

TREND AGAINST SCIENCE

The trend of capitalism today is against science because it cannot sell the prolific output of science. Socialism needs all science can provide and will soon outstrip capitalist countries in this respect.

Farmers today are living just the same as the serfs and peasants of the middle ages. Because of the economic lag, a farmer still ploughs one acre a day with a horse when he could do ten or twenty acres with a tractor.

She repudiated the idea that she was associated with the Communist party.

"True Communism is an ideal that is beyond all of us. But the Communist party seeks to overthrow the present system by methods with which we of the C.C.F. do not agree—methods contrary to British tradition and to Canadian psychology. We do not seek to reach our goal by violence," she said.

TRIBUTE TO LEADER

Mrs. Steeves paid a fine tribute to the party leader, Rev. Robert Connell.

"His personality appeals to the people and to their imagination. He is a quiet and courageous leader and a thinker—a humanitarian and a socialist—a man who believes in change, not stagnation."

Mrs. Isaac was born in Chatham, Ont., but has lived in one Michigan county, Allegan, for 104 years.

PUBLIC HEALTH INSURANCE

representatives will be influenced by their own sound honest judgment in carrying this bill through and not yield to large corporate interests to prevent its passage.

From the employers' standpoint the cost is negligible. As an example, the total contribution required of a firm employing 100 men averaging $75 per month would be $75 per month only—certainly not an amount which would interfere materially with production costs. The 100 men employed would contribute approximately $150 per month between them to secure practically complete medical and surgical attention for themselves and dependents, and since this amount would be deducted from the monthly pay cheque, there is created the certainty of continued insurance without danger of lapse as in the case of company insurance.

Reference has been made in press correspondence and radio speeches to the panel system of medical aid, and to the under-employment of a few doctors in that it destroys the spirit of competition among doctors. "The proposed draft bill specifically states that contributors will retain absolute freedom in choosing their own medical attendants."

It has been suggested that a plebiscite (dear old plebiscite!) be taken in order to get the public viewpoint on the bill. Surely after electing members at great cost to represent us such a suggestion is unnecessary and merely an effort to again withhold the passage of this long-needed and much overdue social legislation.

The man in the street says "It's a good thing," and does not object to the trifling charge which assures his whole family of adequate medical attention. To what better use could small contributions be applied than for this splendid purpose?

To the population at large, let me exhort them to use every strong effort to prevail upon their representatives—either by delegation, wire, letter or telephone—to pass this greatest and most important of all legislative attempts.

ISRAELITES

To the Editor—Ever since I came to your city I have been a close reader of your good paper. I have followed the advertisements and can testify that your business men generally give a fellow a square deal.

But when I turn to the Church page there comes a different feeling, for several times I have gone to hear a speaker who has advertised as a special lecture, and have come away thoroughly disappointed because the subject was not dealt with.

For instance, last Monday I went to hear a colonel from Vancouver speak on "The Throne of David and the appointed place." Well, the whole thing was a joke. He started to tell us that he returned from the war a "confirmed infidel," and closed by saying that the statement of Jesus, "Occupy till I come," was a military command. Think of it, making the Prince of Peace a military commander, and then inviting the people to sing "God Save the King." I asked myself, "Is this Christianity?"

The whole fiasco reminded me of a man who painted lions, and received a commission to paint an angel, and when the client called around to view the work, discovered that he had painted, not an angel, but a lion.

So on Wednesday I saw in your paper a new name (Johnson) and a rare subject, "Who are Israelites?" Having heard this subject discussed over the radio I was naturally interested, and finding myself in the hall, well filled, I have to admit I was a little critical.

In I looked at the speaker, forceful in manner, apparently of long platform experience, captivate the atten-

Court Praise For Thrifty Mother

London Woman Keeps Family of Fifteen on Thirteen Dollars a Week; Dress Designs Not Copyright

London, Special Correspondence.—"If I had my hat on I would take it off to you."

With these words, Mr. Registrar Friend paid tribute to a mother of thirteen children—Mrs. Kate Emily Brown of Islington, a poor district of London—who was being sued by the borough council for £2 2s 6d (£15) due for electricity.

Mr. Friend's high praise of her was for the splendid way she managed to keep fifteen people—her husband, herself and their thirteen children—on £2 14s 6d (£13) a week for food.

Mrs. Brown had offered to pay 5s, or £1 a month of her electricity bill, but Mr. Registrar Friend reduced it to 2s 6d (50c) a month.

It was during the evidence in court that Mrs. Brown disclosed that she had thirteen children, only two of whom were working, and that her husband had just started work after two and a half years' unemployment.

She had had seventeen children—including triplets and twins. One of the triplets and three others died.

Her eldest child is now twenty-eight—the youngest is a year and seven months.

STARVATION DIET

The family's staple diet consists of bread and margarine, jam, potatoes and soups.

Often twelve pounds of potatoes are cooked for dinner. They eat between six and eight loaves of bread and two pounds of margarine every day.

Sometimes they have eggs, and now and again a little meat. Yet they are all healthy despite what many people would call "starvation" diet. Thanks to Mrs. Brown's good management their menus appear so varied that the children's appetite does not fall because of a too frequent repetition of the same dish.

Mrs. Brown is content with her lot. "Life has always been a bit of a struggle," she said in an interview after the court case was over. "When we were first married, William, my husband, was a fireman."

"Two years ago he fell out of work. Then life was a real struggle. But we are a happy family."

"As for my husband, he is one of the best. Neither of us drinks anything stronger than a cup of tea."

And—far from wishing her family were smaller—Mrs. Brown thinks children are the greatest help to happiness.

"If only young married people would have more, instead of believing in 'one-child marriages,'" she said, "there would not be so many divorces or so much unhappiness."

DRESS DESIGNS NOT COPYRIGHT

A first rate controversy is now raging in the fashion salons of London and Paris, following a decision given this week by a London judge, Mr. Justice Clauson.

In a test case brought before him by Mrs. Marjorie Burke, a dress designer, he decided that a woman's dress is not necessarily a work of art and has no copyright.

In the hearing of the case, a mannequin, attired in a low-cut red chiffon dinner gown, paraded up and down in the courtroom.

GOSS SINGERS ARE ENJOYED

Old English Songs, Chanties and Chansons on Last Night's Programme

By G.A.D.

John Goss and his London Singers charmed an audience yesterday evening in their appearance at the Empire Theatre.

It was an unusually vivid and original programme of delectable fare. John Goss is an eminent English baritone, and a veritable host in himself, and he has an immensely gifted and skilled quartette of singers. A. W. Whitehead, alto; Frank Hart, tenor; Clifford McCormick, baritone; also pianist and accompanist and Alan Miller, bass.

Those who were present had the pleasure of listening to the art of vocal ensembles about as perfect as could be. Musically, the "good old days" for the moment permeated stage and audience. The beautiful blending of the voices, the clear articulation, the real feeling, fine spirit and imaginative sense of the singers were impressive.

Everybody revelled in the vocal old gems, such as the "Kentish Yeoman's Song," the cavalier's song, "Down Among the Dead Men," of the sixteenth and seventeenth centuries; and in the beautiful blend of Schubert's "Liebe," Schumann's "Die Rose Stand im Tau," and the three chansons, arranged by Dr. Healey Willan.

The concluding group of five shanties, musically refurbished, wholesome, human, sentimental, were uproariously applauded and again and again the singers were recalled to the platform.

It is doubtful if, in his research and study of these old songs, Mr. Goss has left anything unsaid or unused in the art he represents so well and faithfully.

His solo work in full of artistry, his interpretive gifts superlative. He projects the moods of his song with deft art and the four songs with Shakespeare he encompassed with perfect diction and character. "Orpheus With His Lute" (W. Linsley), and "Dr. Arncliffe's Delightful High No More Ladies," and as an encore he sang another Shakespearean song from "Twelfth Night."

Mr. McCormick, the accomplished pianist, is well equipped technically, and he delves into the very heart, the most emotional content of the music. He played four numbers from Bach, Mendelssohn, Cowell, and Debussy.

In 1934, Canada produced 30,175 electric refrigerators, as compared to 16,649 in 1933. During the same year she imported 1,785 from the United States.

Stars Assemble At Winnipeg For Canadian Badminton Meet

THE SPORTS MIRROR

A question which has kept local basketball fans guessing, appeared to be answered in part today. It had to do with the chances of Victoria's Dominos on a strange floor against a good team with outside referees. On Saturday evening, in Seattle, the local Canadian champions faced these conditions and lost to the Washington Frosh 33 to 23.

With one exception the Dominos have gone through a classy exhibition series at the Victoria High School gym without testing defeat. In those games the Victorians, whose calibre is beyond reproach, have had the additional advantages of playing on a floor of which they know virtually every board. They have had local referees and conditions have been virtually ideal for them.

If they emerge victors over Vancouver Province in the provincial play-offs they will journey east for further tests. And they will, in all probability, face conditions no more favorable than they did in Seattle this week-end.

There is such a possibility as becoming too much at home on one particular floor. And outside referees, while standardized in a general way, are often noted for individual interpretations of some of the rulings.

Some of the Dominos feel they could win a replay game against the Frosh. But the fact remains they were caught napping on Saturday. Doubtless they will benefit from experience and work out a system of combating attacks similar to those staged by the Washington Freshmen.

A ray of sunshine pierced the gloomy outlook held by Wally Vana, coach of the Vinters, today, following the defeat of his squad by Nanaimo at the High School on Saturday. His team faces a twelve-point deficit when it goes up-land on Friday for the return engagement in the home-and-home total point series. But it will be strengthened by the return of Relt Weeks.

However, her return, though encouraging, was not the ray of sunshine. Wally smiled happily in the opinion, his team and play-offs, over the sections of which he is boss, would not be a financial failure. He had hardly hoped the fixtures at the High School Saturday would pay for themselves, but they did and left a small profit. Games this week should tell the story definitely as to whether the players are to be written in the red or not.

That deft touch that good soccer teams show to make the game a spectacle and not just exercise for the boys who play it, was lacking when Equilmait, first division leaders, beat Saanich Thistles on Saturday. During the first half particularly the lack of co-ordination was noticeable as passes went just behind or too far in front of Equilmait players. Saanich boys were worse than Equilmait as far as that fault was concerned, but the Thistles are not standing very high in the division at present. However, the dockers are expected to smooth out their combination play, and should provide very creditable exhibitions with a few more outdoor workouts.

Construction of the Olympic Village, covering 186 acres and comprising 150 structures, is going forward near Berlin. The village will be a complete entity. It will have barbershops, movies, firemen, a technical engineer, shops, bank, an interpreter service, purchasing and cold storage departments, its own food delivery service, and its own sanitary, engineering, plumbing, repair, and gardening departments.

Olympic officials enjoy pointing out to visitors what they are doing to make the thousands of guests expected next summer feel at home. "We want to make everybody feel like Germany's personal guests," they say. "Everything possible is done to help the best athletic performances, keep down team expenses, and promote the Olympic idea and human ideals. Besides, we want everyone to get a good impression of Germany."

That is why, for example, sixteen different kinds of chewing gum have been ordered, primarily for the United States squads and the American soda fountain.

The village lies among gently rolling hills about six miles from the Olympic stadium in Berlin, and near the village of Döberitz. Exterior of the 150 dormitories are now completed. Each will house twenty-six men athletes.

Good Contingent Of B.C. Players To Seek Laurels

Play to Open at Winnipeg Winter Club Courts Tomorrow Afternoon

DOUG GRANT IS HIGHLY RATED

Winnipeg, March 3.—Kings and queens of the shuttle and brilliant stars in the ascendancy gathered here today for the Canadian badminton championships. The largest entry list in the history of western tournaments was closed and racquet arms flexed for the call to play tomorrow.

Official boards of Winnipeg Winter Club courts, where the tourney is being held, resounded to the beat of rattling feet as visiting shotmakers shook off travel effects. Points as widely separated as Vancouver and Quebec were well represented in a field that approached the 200 mark.

With one exception, all of last year's champions were registered. Rod Phelan was on deck to defend the singles title he won at Ottawa last year. The ladies' singles queen, Margaret Taylor of Kelowna, headed a contingent from the Pacific Coast that included Mrs. Anna Kier Patrick, former titleholder, rangy Richard Birch, 1935 semi-finalist, Jack Underhill, Eric Leney and Urica Norie.

Long absentees among the racquet royalty was George Goodwin of Camp Borden, who paired with spritely Margaret Robertson of Ottawa to capture the 1935 mixed doubles crown. This year she will team with L. K. Sibbald of Woodstock, co-holder with L. K. Coles of the men's doubles title.

GRANT ENTERED

Western hopes for the men's singles crown were pinned on the husky forearm of Douglas Grant. The twenty-three-year-old Halifax star, representing the Winnipeg Winter Club this year, has been working on western courts in tune-up efforts for a shot at the title he did not defend last year. Taking three 1936 sectional titles in his stride, the 1933-34 titleholder has displayed the form that placed him at the top of the heap two years ago. He won the Saskatchewan title on his way to the Vancouver Island tournament and then returned to add Manitoba honors to his collection.

The battle for preferred position in any one of the five events promised keen competition before titles are distributed Saturday night. Mrs. W. H. Walton, Jr., of Toronto, who learned her court game at Regina registered for another shot at the single crown that eluded her last season.

Against Bev. Mitchell, crisp-stroking Ottawa, J. Storey of Toronto, J. Nash of London, the Robertson sisters of Ottawa, the west offered tried campaigners and a brilliant coterie of youngsters whose court craft in early provincial trials has placed them in a class by themselves.

MILLER KEEPS FIGHT LAURELS

Beats Peety Sarron in Spite of Flurry of Low Blows in Title Bout

Coral Gables, Fla., March 3.—Freddie Miller of Cincinnati, successfully defended his National Boxing Association featherweight championship against Peter Sarron of Birmingham, here yesterday evening in fifteen rounds of fast, furious fighting replete with rough tactics.

While 5,000 fans alternately cheered and booed, the Syrian ex-pewboy, veteran of twelve years in the ring, tossed away his chances for the title by letting the champion at least five damaging low blows.

So irate was Referee Leo Shea that, after Miller went withing to his corner in the twelfth round as a result of one of Sarron's low blows, he threatened aloud: "If it happens again, he's out!" Sarron carried the fight to Miller during the early rounds. He threw punches from every angle and attacked violently.

The Cincinnati fighter rallied with the seventh and jabbing nicely with his right and slipping over long damaging lefts, had apparently evened matters by the tenth.

START LOW BLOWS

That round saw the first of the low blows—Miller, a face registering pain and surprise, slumped until the referee temporarily halted the fight without taking the round from the challenger.

The eleventh went to Miller on another low blow, fired just after he had crashed his left squarely to Sarron's chin, and it looked like serious trouble might result when still another low blow, which obviously hurt the champion badly, interrupted the twelfth.

After four or five minutes, Shea got the fight started again and Miller, coasting through the thirteenth, traded blows on an even basis throughout the final two rounds.

STRANGE AS IT SEEMS

The most amazing career in American business is the career of Timothy Dexter, born in 1747 and died in 1806. He made a fortune in deals which, in the face of them, appeared idiotic. Born in a poor family, he worked for a time as a leather tanner and saved enough money to buy stocks in a failing market. That began his fortune.

CARPET PLAY IS UNDER WAY

Annual Tournament Starts at Crystal Garden; Three Teams Win Easily

As play opened yesterday evening for the Hiscup Cup in the annual championship tournament of the Victoria Carpet Bowling League, decisive victories in three of the five matches were secured. The tourney is being held at the Crystal Garden.

Britannia Regents, Britannia Royals and S.O.E. Hood garnered impressive triumphs in their encounters, while S.O.E. Repulse and S.O.E. Victory eked out two-point decisions.

Louis Announces Retirement Plan

Buffalo, N.Y., March 3.—Joe Louis, Detroit's Brown Bomber, said yesterday evening he will defend the world's heavyweight title once only if he wins it from James J. Braddock.

M'KECHNIE CUP FINAL LISTED FOR SATURDAY

Once again the Victoria Rugby Union made preparation to send the local rep squad to Vancouver for the final M'Kechnie Cup game against Varsity on Saturday when the officials met for their regular session yesterday evening. The game will decide which team will hold the prized cup. Each enjoys a victory over Vancouver reps.

With senior squads depleted through the absence of rep men, the local highlight will feature a decisive game in the intermediate league. Wanderers Whites, undefeated this season to date, will stack up against the Fifth Brigade in a fixture which will decide the second half championship. A win for the young Gunners would force a play-off series with the Whites for the city championship in their section.

The game, along with one between Victoria College and the Canadian Scottish, is listed for Macdonald Park. Both fixtures are billed to start at 2:45 o'clock.

BOB DIXON WILL TRAIN IN SOUTH

Canadian Press Vancouver, March 3.—Bob Dixon, Vancouver's British Empire Games javelin champion, left for southern California yesterday for a period of training under the watchful eye of Dean Cromwell, coach of the University of Southern California.

"I want to see just what I can do with the old javelin so I decided Cromwell was the best man to tell me," said Dixon on his departure. He will work out for several weeks in the south to keep in shape for the coming Olympic Games for which he is highly rated as representing Canada in the javelin event.

Shikat Defeats Danmo O'Mahoney

Associated Press New York, March 3.—Danno O'Mahoney, stalwart of the Old Sod, no longer boasts the somewhat nebulous title of heavyweight wrestling champion. Yesterday evening in Madison Square Garden, Dick Shikat of Philadelphia forced the Irishman to quit after 18.57 minutes of comparatively tame grappling. He used a hammer lock that caused O'Mahoney to surrender. The Irishman, weighing 225, was two pounds lighter than the German.

GOLF MEETS ARE LISTED

Four Women's and One Men's Competitions at the Uplands Course This Month

Women members of the Uplands Golf Club will usher in the first round play of the Barcus Cup competition on March 13, it made known yesterday by Mrs. E. Cuppage.

Three rounds will take place in the cup meet, with the final round terminating March 27. The postponed February medal round will also be played March 13.

Full handicaps will be allowed participants, who will select their own partners and arrange for starting times.

On April 9 the women members will play for the annual prize of a dozen golf balls presented by Walter Gravin, Uplands pro. The competition will be "hidden hole" with its balls going as first prize, four balls for best net score and two for second prize. There will be no entry fee for this event.

The par monthly competition this month will take part on Friday.

Bill Newcombe, men's captain of the Uplands Golf Club, announced yesterday that the qualifying round in the annual Peesey Cup competition will be staged Sunday next, March 7.

Play will be eighteen holes medal play on handicap. The first round will be played the same afternoon, due to the fact that weather conditions have interfered with original dates. Match play will be on three-quarters of the difference in handicaps. Success will qualify for the cup flight and the rest will be divided into flights.

COACH SUSPENDED

Ottawa, March 3 (Canadian Press).—Alex Smith, coach of the Royal Canadian Air Force entry in the Ottawa City Hockey League and former National Hockey League player, was suspended indefinitely yesterday for assaulting Phil St. Armand, one of the officials, during a game here Saturday night.

Eskimo custodian, with a hard drive from close in. DUPLICATE GOAL. Edmonton's back-checking centreman, Louis Holmes, duplicated Hutton's goal one minute later.

Norm Fridham, former Leo, and Conney Kunsman, ex-Buckaro, scored a goal apiece within twenty-two seconds to wind up the first canto and give the Eskimos a 3 to 1 lead.

Eskimos Threaten Chances of Lions

After a scoreless second period, the Albertans started the third with a stalwart defence and only yielded to the lightning fast rushes of the Patrickmen once.

Lude Palm put the Lions within striking distance eight minutes through the final frame when he carried the disc into Eskimo territory, shot it past the defence and rushed in fast to pick the corner of the net.

This ended the scoring, although McCusker had to use a double header on himself to pull the rubber off the line on Tim O'Neill's shot from close in, during the closing minutes of the game.

American's Sharpshooters Dominating Standings; Hooley Smith Third, Two Points Behind Chapman

Montreal, March 3.—New York Americans, driving confidently towards their first play-off berth in nine years, threaten to take all individual scoring honors of the National Hockey League season, the weekly statistics showed yesterday evening.

Dave Schriner, Americans left-winger, continued to hold a wide margin in point leadership, while he has tied Cecil Dillon of New York Rangers, for leadership in actual goals. Art Chapman, Schriner's centre mate, tops the whole league in assists.

As Americans pulled into a three-point lead over Montreal Canadiens for the coveted third-place spot in the Canadian section, Schriner scored two goals and two assists during the week to increase his margin over all other scorers to six points compared with five a week ago. He has eighteen goals, twenty-three assists, forty-one points during the week, all on assists, to take over second place in the Canadian section from Hooley Smith of Montreal Maroons. Chapman has 9-26-35, while Smith, with but one point in the week, held third by 17-16-33.

J. PORTLAND WILL REPLACE SIEBERT

Boston, March 3.—Jack Portland, Brawny defenceman regarded as the most likely major leaguer on Boston Cubs hockey squad, was taken up by Boston Bruins yesterday to fill in for the injured Babe Siebert.

Says Hobbies Are Important

Dr. H. Anderson Tells Kiwanians They Should Be Taught in the Schools

"I think hobbies will have to be taught in the schools. If necessary let the boys bring their rabbits to school with them," said Dr. Heinrich Anderson of the staff of the Provincial Normal School when addressing members of the Kiwanis Club at their luncheon at the Empress Hotel.

"The education system, I believe was partly responsible for some of the trouble with the young lads in the unemployment camps," Dr. Anderson continued. "We left those boys without any interest. We didn't even teach them to collect stamps."

Dr. Anderson said he believed the education system of the future would teach more about service and leisure and pay more attention to health and character.

"I don't think sufficient stress has been laid on service," he said. "The crown and glory of life is character." The speaker said he would like to see a technical school established for girls.

"I think the girls have come off rather badly in many respects," he said. "And I would like to see something different in sports. Sports in the schools are too much associated with silverware. The game is the thing. I would like to see half a day for sports with every child in the school participating."

Dr. Anderson said the day was long gone when the child was brought dutifully to his parents. The child was now everybody's business, he said. She spoke of world peace and the part that could be played in it by the youth.

"Peace is never going to come by men sitting around," he said. "It is the number of things that must be done by education. The only thing that worries me is that I won't live forever. But when the time comes for these changes I hope you will get behind us. Don't tell us we don't have any money, for we will not be here you. It's an old argument but the money could be found to place guns in the boys' hands, but there is no money to teach those boys a trade."

PRaises BOYS
"Youth is tremendously important. The children are the biggest heritage we have. I think the finest creature on earth is the Grade 8 boy. He's never as fine again. He is very wide awake and very vital. You would be amazed at the questions those Grade 8 boys discuss. I have found that boys are more vitally interested in questions of life in their adolescent years than are girls."

Dr. Anderson said there were four channels through which a child received education. They were the school, the church, the home and the street.

"But we are all receiving education whether we like it or not," he said.

W. A. Loney, president of the club, introduced Dr. Anderson who was thanked for his talk by Rev. E. F. Church.

EGG PRICES ARE OFF SIX CENTS

Sudden Drop in Market Caused by Mild Weather

The egg market fell off sharply this morning and at noon today prices were down five to six cents a dozen.

Grade A large were quoted at thirty-one cents a dozen wholesale, off six cents; grade A medium thirty cents, and grade A pullet twenty-nine cents, both off five cents.

Some confusion was caused among wholesalers by the sudden fall in the price of eggs. Early this morning prices were said to have slipped two cents from yesterday's figures, but later the full extent of the drop became known.

The weakness in the market was caused by increased production due to the mild weather.

HEALTH BILL WELL DEBATED

Big Majority for Measure on Second Reading Forecast With Fight Later

Health insurance underwent a two and one-half hour barrage in the Liberal caucus yesterday evening. While no definite decision was reached, it was generally predicted the bill would receive a big majority in the House on second reading. Another caucus is expected in the meantime.

Private Liberal members opposing the measure, it was reported, will concentrate their fight on having a plebiscite clause inserted which will specify that a vote of the people must be taken before the scheme goes into operation.

They urged this in caucus without success and now plan to take the fight to the floor of the House. With this in mind, most of them will vote for the bill on second reading when the principle only is at issue, it was indicated. Then when it goes to committee they will fight for a plebiscite.

One or two Liberals may oppose the bill on second reading, but with the C.C.F. having declared through two of their speakers that they will accept the scheme as a start, a four-to-one majority on second reading is foreseen.

FEAR FOR HOSPITAL FINANCES

In the meantime, several members of the caucus indicated they would force an announcement from the government on whether health insurance would not affect the statutory grants of seventy cents per day per patient to hospitals. They said they understood the aggregate of statutory grants would be limited to $750,000, the same as provided in the estimates last year, and that if the total asked should run over this the per diem grants would be cut down accordingly. However, no official statement was made on this point.

The flood of telegrams, letters and resolutions to members of the House, some opposing and some supporting the measure, has continued, taken as indicating increasing public interest.

All members of the House have been invited to a special meeting tomorrow morning to hear the views of the Trades and Labor Council on the measure.

Rugged Days of Klondike Told

Record of Late David Doig, Pioneer Banker, Heard by Members of League

Incidents descriptive of the rugged and picturesque days of the Klondike gold boom, reviving in vivid form the pioneering banking operations in the colorful mining camps of the Yukon territory, as recorded by the late David Doig, formerly manager of the Bank of British North America here, were related by a letter written by him to the Dawson City in 1898, were read by G. B. Kittle, vice-chairman of the League, before the Overseas League at the March meeting held yesterday afternoon in Spencer's tea-room.

The Bank of British North America had been determined to be the first to establish itself in the Klondike gold diggings and sent two parties to Dawson City, one up the Yukon River in charge of the late James Cran, and the other by the overland route via Skagway and the White Pass in charge of Mr. Doig.

LIVING COSTS HIGH

The excessive cost of commodities in the northern mining boom days were described in Mr. Doig's letter, as high as $5 being charged for a plug of tobacco and $1 for a cup of tea. Eggs cost $1 apiece, and they were frozen.

The boom town of Wrangell, Alaska, was described by Mr. Doig early in his record. In order to get his banking assets safely past "Boopie" Smith, the notorious bank robber, and his accomplices, Mr. Doig displayed great resourcefulness. He remained behind in Skagway, supposedly with the assets, and dispatched an assistant unostentatiously over the White Pass to Canadian territory and safety.

MANY HARDSHIPS

Descriptive of the journey and its hardships, Mr. Doig's letter indicated that the expedition left Vancouver on April 1, 1898, and it was not until May 17 that their destination was reached. The route taken was via Lake Bennett, Yukon River and the treacherous White Horse Rapids. Many gruesome sights were witnessed in negotiating the White Pass, which took its toll in man and beast in the frenzied rush to the bonanza of the north in search of gold.

It was on May 19, 1898, two days after the party reached Dawson that the Bank of British North America was established and open for business. One of the first demands made on Mr. Doig, he related, was a request for a loan of $20,000 from a Mr. Chappell, whose securities, gold dust, were literally frozen assets in the northern diggings. In his record Mr. Doig commented that the bank never made a safer loan.

The hope was expressed at the meeting that at some future time the experiences of Mr. Cran would be related to the Overseas League members.

The annual Kiwanis Cup rugby game between Victoria College and Victoria High School will take place tomorrow on the High School grounds, beginning at 3:30 o'clock.

"Kubelik Plays Magic," Says Critic

"Kubelik plays magic," writes Augustus Bridle, music critic of the Toronto Star, when commenting on Kubelik's recital in Toronto last night. He says:

"When the solemn little stout wizard of crows-black mane and bald head, with the tall blond son in the piano, tucked the headpiece tightly under his chin and as rigid as a statue, lifted his baton with a grand flourish for the Goldmark Concerto, the most heavenly tone possible from any instrument came from that fabulous Strad. The youth at the piano played with dazzling brilliance—for young Raphael is becoming a great pianist, and no other violinist here ever had a son for accompanist. But the virtuosity of the son was soon second to the magic of the father, who in this concerto displayed most of his memorable wizardry. His tone was never big, but always limply beautiful. He had all the old certainty of scale and intonation, especially in the exquisite Andante Arioso, it had the magic of Haydn and the atmosphere of Kreisler."

Kubelik and his son will be heard in Victoria on Monday, March 16, at the Empire Theatre, under the management of Violet Wilson.

MANY PERSONS NOW BOATING

Junior Chamber Broadcast Tells of Fine Facilities for Yachting in Straits

More and more persons are answering to the call of the sea and many more persons each year are coming boating in yachts and launches to enjoy boating in an almost landlocked sea, landlocked not by another continent but by a thousand-and-one islands of beauty, said Commodore Thomas Mercer of the Royal Victoria Yacht Club, speaking yesterday evening on the Junior Chamber of Commerce broadcast series on "Know Vancouver Island" over radio station CFTC.

The programme was dedicated to Nanaimo.

It was pointed out that the straits which separate the islands from the mainland was a yachtsman's paradise, as there were hundreds of bays and coves along the rugged coast in which the men of leisure can moor their boats. Hauling in boats gave one easy access to the wonderful fishing and big-game hunting that exists on the island and mainland. Buff breezes during the evening throughout the summer months provide a fine chance for yachtsmen to enjoy a fast spin over the silvery blue waters of the inside passage.

Don Brake, vice-president of the Junior Chamber, who undertook to discuss the activities of the Junior Chamber of Commerce, took as his subject the debaters group, telling many interesting things about this feature of searching for facts.

W. O. Findlay was master of ceremonies, and introduced the various speakers to the radio public.

Don Brake, vice-president of the Junior Chamber, contributed a number of selections to the programme. Miss Conway accompanied him at the piano.

A description of the history of Nanaimo was given.

PREFERS CITY TO HONOLULU

Dr. DeWitt Mertz of New York Says More Travel Coming to British Columbia

Dr. DeWitt M. Mertz, retired New York medical officer, who over a period of years has vacationed in Quebec, Ontario and the Maritimes, is visiting British Columbia for the first time, and likes it.

He likes Victoria even better than Hawaii, where he recently visited, and intends to spend at least a month here.

Dr. Mertz illustrated his reasons for leaving Honolulu in a hurry to spend the remainder of his Pacific holiday on Vancouver Island, by recounting the reply of the boy when asked by his teacher to define an island. He said: "An island is a body of land surrounded by water and owned by a steamship company."

Disatisfied with his Hawaii trip, Dr. Mertz boarded the liner Empress of Canada and came to Victoria.

"I am going to like it here," he said. "It is one of the finest cities I have been in and I have traveled a long way in my day."

The New Yorker has a lot of fine things to say about Bermuda, and he has spent many happy holidays in eastern Canada. Ontario used to be popular with Americans before it was copied, the United States and went dry, and then Quebec got the business, he said.

The eastern Canadian provinces are again getting the tourist traffic back, Dr. Mertz stated, because of the close proximity to the eastern centres of population in the United States.

To prepare for the 1936 Y.M.C.A. financial drive which will open on Monday, March 9, and continues till March 16, Mayor David Leeming, campaign chairman, will address a supper meeting of all executives on Friday, March 6, in Spencer's private dining-room.

The purpose of the preliminary meeting will be to give reports of team organization, to instruct captains, to arrange for the distribution of literature to captains, to arrange for the distribution of the first quota of subscription cards, to discuss campaign strategy and to discuss the method of determining team objectives.

At the corresponding meeting last season there was 100 per cent attendance. Lieutenant-Governor Fordham Johnson will act as patron of the campaign this year which has as its object $8,300. The total is made out to cover a $2,100 accumulated budget requirement and $500 for boys' camp equipment in addition to the annual budget requirement which is $3,700 for the 1935-36 season.

An executive meeting was held yesterday afternoon at the Y.M.C.A. and division reports were read by E. G. Rosebottom, Warren W. Martin, Duncan MacBride and J. Barracough. Committee reports were given by Alderman Archie Williams, publicity; Frank Paulding; catering; H. E. Lawson, listing; H. B. Wilfer, special names; Rev. G. A. Reynolds, church announcements and Frank Paulding, general organization.

Y.M.C.A. income and expenditure is carefully estimated and budgeted by a board of eighteen representative citizens.

Budgets have been gradually reduced from $32,500 five years ago to $21,442 this year, almost 75 per cent of this total being paid over the counter for privileges and accommodations by visitors. The balance of $5,700 represents work done in and for the community in general without adequate charge or fee.

MUSICAL FILM AT THE EMPIRE

"Invitation to the Waltz" Opens To-morrow

"Blossom Time, now being shown at the Columbia Theatre, is a new version of the life of Franz Schubert, and presents in the star role, in his first British talkie, the world-famous 'golden-voiced' tenor, Richard Tauber, who, with side whippers, and having pocketed his famous monocle a pair of specially-made spectacles similar to those worn by Schubert in 1826, bears a most remarkable resemblance to the famous composer. Tauber, who prefers to sing and talk in German, has already made five talkies in Germany.

This opera, "Merrie England," was first produced at the Savoy Theatre, London, in April, 1902. Among the well-known artists in the original production were Sir Henry A. Lytton, Robert Evelt, Walter Passmore, Rocina Brandram, Agnes Fraser and Louie Pounds.

This opera, still a first favorite all over the Empire is to be presented on Saturday, March 7, at the Empire Theatre by the Eurydice Art Society.

In the plot and environment there is much to recall the grandeur and color of England's history. The impressive music heralding the entrance of Queen Elizabeth and her courtiers, the stirring "Yeomen" song of the East of Essex, and the quips and capers of the humorous Shakespearean players are notable features of the show.

A carefully selected cast aided by a large chorus can be depended upon to furnish first class entertainment. The production is in the hands of Percy Mickleburgh, who has successfully directed the previous performances of the society.

Mrs. W. B. Mickleburgh, the president, aided by the Ladies' Auxiliary president, Mrs. McArthur, are assisting in the work.

PLAYHOUSE THEATRE

"Shipmates Forever," now being shown at the Playhouse Theatre, is a stirring drama with an all-star cast headed by Dick Powell and Ruby Keeler and including Lewis Stone, Ross Alexander, Richard (Dick) Foran, Eddie Acuff, Johnny Arledge, Robert Light and Joseph Crehan.

Music and lyrics are by Dubin and Warren and screen play by Delmer Daves.

HERE TOMORROW

Produced on a really lavish scale and including Weber's famous waltz from which the film takes its title, "Invitation to the Waltz," showing at the Empire Theatre Wednesday, is a delightful romance of Napoleonic days, featuring Lilian

Harvey, the fairy-like little actress who has achieved world-wide fame. The background of the story is set against the days when Napoleon threatened the peace of Europe, and into this masterpiece of political espionage is flung Jenny Peachey, a little English dancer from Drury Lane ballet, whose dancing has made her the delight of every European capital.

LESLIE HOWARD DOMINION STAR

Popular Actor Plays Leading Role With Bette Davis in "Petrified Forest"

Raising the wind, once a simple matter of turning on a big propeller, became a more difficult movie problem in Warner Bros.' production of "The Petrified Forest," now showing at the Dominion Theatre.

In one of the big desert scenes, it is necessary for a wind storm to sweep across the sandy waste. When the old propeller system was tried, Director Archie Mayo was dissatisfied. Desert winds, he claimed, blew in gusts and set up little eddies.

A special system of ducts was devised with control valves for each. These operated at different velocities and were aimed at different points. The big fan was retained for what was termed "general wind," and the controlled wind streams were synchronized with the main propeller so that when the big wind was reduced, the small effect-gusts became effective.

Leslie Howard and Bette Davis have the stellar roles while others in the cast include Genevieve Tobin, Humphrey Bogart, Charley Grapewin, Dick Foran, Porter Hall and Joseph Sawyer. The screen play is by Charles Kenyon and Delmer Daves based on the drama by Robert Emmet Sherwood.

Also being shown on the same programme is "Dancing Feet," starring Ben Lyons.

Upward Movement Resumed Today On New York Market

New York, March 3.—The stock market paused for a brief period today to consider the administration's new tax programme, then resumed its steady upward climb.

Automobiles and motor equipment issues led the advance in the final hour. Many tops for the last five years were recorded with gains ranging from fractions to two or more points.

The close was firm. Transfers approximated 2,700,000 shares.

The President's recommendations for a tax on undistributed corporate profits, followed with suggestions that other company level be repealed, found brokerage opinion rather mixed.

For a time the ticker tape barely moved as traders attempted to gauge the market's effects of the revenue proposals. Then buyers came to the fore with sizeable orders.

The dollar benefited almost immediately following reading of the chief executive's message to Congress. Foreign currencies turned heavy in relation to the American monetary unit. Grains were narrow.

Capt. Carstens Dies on Ship

Genial German Captain of Ms. Vancouver, Known Here, Dies at Panama

Capt. Herman Carstens, genial bearded skipper of the German liner Vancouver, which he brought into the port of Victoria several times in recent years, died suddenly aboard his ship at Panama yesterday, according to word received in Victoria this morning.

Capt. Carstens left the Pacific northwest in December after having said farewell to his friends. He intended to retire to a farm at Lubeck, Germany, after serving the sea for many years. He was asked to make one more round-trip voyage to the Pacific coast, however, until his successor on the bridge of the Vancouver was appointed.

When the Vancouver reaches San Francisco in ten days, Capt. Carstens's place will be taken by Capt. H. Helm.

For forty-four years the late captain had been sailing the sea. He first came to the Pacific Coast in 1900 as fourth officer of the freighter Pentaur.
